Allies Claim 500 Reds in Day's Battle

Firepower From Ships, Planes, Artillery Unleashed on Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — An unrelenting display of firepower from ships, planes and artillery cost the Viet Cong 501 killed in the past 24 hours while U.S. fighter-bombers caused new havoc along North Viet Nam's truck and rail routes, Allied officials reported today.

On Saigon's outskirts, South Vietnamese troops and planes mauled and scattered a 700-man Communist force early today after it daringly attacked a government armored regiment's headquarters at Go Dau within gunshot of a large American troop concentration.

The Reds made off with four American-made tanks in the raid on the headquarters 12 miles north of Saigon, but Vietnamese forces destroyed two and recaptured the others. A spokesman said 71 Viet Cong were killed.

Largest Toll

The largest toll was claimed by South Korean forces in Operation Fierce Tiger 285 miles northeast of Saigon. Korean officers said 214 Communists were killed, 117 captured and 281 persons detained Wednesday in the central coastal ricelands around Qui Nhon. It was the largest Korean operation to date.

The tide of battle also was costly to the Allies.

The U.S. military command reported 80 Americans killed, 816 wounded and 17 missing or captured in the fighting last week. This compared with 100 killed, 808 wounded and eight missing or captured the week before.

The number of South Vietnamese killed rose from 131 to 232 last week but the number of missing declined from 97 to 73. Vietnamese wounded are not disclosed.

Communist Losses

Communist losses reported by the Allies declined sharply during the week of March 13-19, with 627 killed and 59 captured

Try to Form New Cabinet In Indonesia

Military Leaders Talk With Sukarno, But Fail to Agree

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia's new leaders met again with President Sukarno today without reaching agreement on a new anti-Communist Cabinet to cope with the nation's political and economic chaos.

The meeting brought Sukarno together with a presidium of key civilian and military representatives who have been trying to forge a Cabinet for four days. Another meeting was scheduled later today, sources said.

There was concern in some quarters that unless the presidium reached a decision on a new Cabinet soon, the students who toppled Sukarno's 100-man Cabinet would again stage street demonstrations.

Jakarta Calm

Meanwhile, Jakarta remained calm and the military shortened the nightly curfew by 3½ hours.

While the presidium deliberated, influential political parties expressed their support for Suharto.

Islamic members of the House of Representatives called on Suharto to restore the House to "its real authority and function" instead of using it as a rubber stamp as Sukarno did for years.

Sukarno appeared at a Pakistani reception Wednesday night and declared: "I am still president of Indonesia. I am still supreme commander of the armed forces. I am still leader of the Indonesian revolution."

Sukarno appeared in good humor and wore a field marshal's uniform. He spoke in English.

Sukarno's appearance at the reception underlined both his desire to retain his position and the military's wish to emphasize the legality of the change in the power structure.

Plains States Buried By Spring Snowstorm

At Least 21 Deaths Are Blamed on Blizzard; Travel Virtually Halted

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sun broke through today over the northern Midwest, left heavily snow-coated by the second killer blizzard this month and thoroughly chilled by bitter cold that moved in behind the storm.

The storm moved eastward, with diminished winds, spilling occasionally heavy falls of snow on areas adjacent to the lower Great Lakes. Western Pennsylvania, for example, got as much as nine inches. The northern and middle parts of West Virginia got 2-4 inches.

The blizzard had left a snow-choked trail of death and hardship across the northern Plains. At least 28 persons lost their lives, and hundreds of cities and towns were paralyzed temporarily by deep drifts and blinding whiteouts fashioned by winds as strong as 70 miles an hour during the storm's two-day passage from Colorado to Lake Superior.

Bitter Cold

The cold after the storm was bitterest along the Minnesota-Canadian border where subzero readings this morning included -7 at Roseau. Readings of 10 above or less were reported in Nebraska, the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

The cold air plunged southward with at least freezing temperatures all the way to Texas and began drifting eastward. Freeze warnings were put out tonight for northern Alabama and northern Georgia.

As the Great Plains dug out of the drifts today, the toll of the storm mounted. Nebraska counted 17 dead from the blizzard. Minnesota and Iowa each had three deaths, South Dakota and Wyoming two each and Wisconsin one.

Crews from Wyoming and Colorado were helping restore the shattered rural electric system in west central Nebraska where

Sun Sweeping Back Into State

Snow Removal Is Underway in Hard-Hit Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin's bad weather buffeted areas underwent a turnabout as the sun swept in just as quickly today as the spring storm that hit the northern and western parts Wednesday.

In the northwestern area the storm struck with savage intensity and left a heavy blanket of snow ranging from 7 to 12 inches.

It was different today.

"We have the brightest sunshine you ever saw, now," said one happy woman at Superior.

The sun helped clear the air from Eau Claire to Superior... the same air that was clouded with drifting and blowing snow Wednesday.

Roads Cleared

Roads in the northwest were still being cleared today and district highway officials for the nine-county area said all main highways were expected to be open by this afternoon.

In the Eau Claire area most roads were open but most county schools remained closed.

The storm, the tailend of a blizzard that raked Iowa and Minnesota, left lingering light snow across the upper midwest. An additional inch fell at Marquette, Mich., during the night adding to the 22 inches reported on the ground by the Weather Bureau.

The paralyzing storm also left 9 inches at Park Falls, 7 at Eau Claire, 4 at Wausau and 3 inches at Madison.

Two Unions Threatening To Walk Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unions which represent 100,000 soft coal miners and 34,000 airline mechanics are threatening to strike in support of demands for pay increases which exceed the administration's wage guidelines.

Neither threatened walkout is imminent, however.

At a New York meeting Wednesday, the National Policy Committee of the Independent United Mine Workers of America gave union officers the right to call a strike to support efforts to gain a 4 per cent pay raise for the 100,000 soft coal workers in 25 states.

But the union would first have to give a 60-day notice of intention to terminate the present contract, and there was no indication when such a step might be taken.

At about the same time, the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists issued a statement here that it would strike five airlines — Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United — unless a deadlock in negotiations is broken by April 23.

The machinists seek a 15 per cent pay hike.

Flying Objects Spotted Over South Michigan

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP)—Additional reports of mysterious flying objects over this southern Michigan City were being investigated today—a continuation of week-long stories of strange objects in the night skies.

The reports Wednesday came from two local residents who said the objects, one red and orange, the other blue and green, moved across the sky at high speeds.

Mrs. Larry Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Lo Presto and 12-year-old Susan Merrill said the objects hovered momentarily before the lights went out.

One of the objects had no distinct outline, the witness said, but Susan said the other was shaped like a football. She said there was a strong wind and snow flurries at the time.

Six-Year-Old Leads Protest Of Lunchroom

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "Shape it up, or ship it out."

The message, carried on a sign by a youthful picket, speaks for itself at a grade school in suburban Wyoming where pupils are boycotting their school lunchroom.

The food, the pupils say, just isn't as good as what mom fixes.

Leader of the protest, 6 year-old Steven Rogers, says, "Someone has to do something about this situation."

The boycott has gone two days. Officials made no attempt to stop it Wednesday.

"We didn't squelch the picketing or the boycotting," said Superintendent Harold Bush. "It was great fun for the kids. The food isn't really that bad."

Assistant Principal Ralph Meece explained he couldn't go along with the youthful picketing, "but I do sympathize with them."

Meece said he usually brings his own lunch to school.

BAYFIELD (AP)—The snow closed in like quicksand.

Winds, whipping off Lake Superior shoved drifts above the tops of stalled cars.

The snow shuttered businesses, closed schools. Travel was throttled. Even skiing stopped.

"Everything is cancelled, even funerals," said motel operator W. C. Burtness.

Snow plows struggled, surrendered.

"I made it this far, but I'm scared I'm not going to make it home," said one plow driver.

More than a foot of snow hid this northern Wisconsin village. More was en route.

"It'll take a week to shovel out," predicted a coffee sipper at the almost snowbound Community Lunch Cafe. The town's only taxi driver answered the phone and said, "I'm snowed in," and hung up. The town's only wrecker was out of service half the day.

Mrs. Marie Nelson, opening her clothing store to sell a pair of overshoes to a stranded traveler said, "I've never seen a storm like this."

The snow struck Bayfield in the vanguard of a blizzard-like storm sweeping across the plains into Iowa and Minnesota on the third day of spring.

End of World

Bayfield, a community of 969 souls, is perched on a bluff near the tip of a thumb of land poking into Lake Superior at Wisconsin's northern-most point 400 miles from Milwaukee.

"On a day like this, this place is the end of the world," said Burtness' wife, Virginia.

Lake Superior, 100 yards from the Burtness home, was invisible, masked behind the polar pallor that curtained the community.

British Polls Pick Laborites

LONDON (AP) — With Britain's national election only a week from today, all the public opinion polls point to a landslide victory for the Labor government.

Whether they are right will be known only after the votes are counted—in the early hours of April Fool's Day. The polls have an almost perfect record in predicting the winning party in past elections.

Since polling began on a national scale after World War II, 14 of the 15 surveys published in the last six elections have predicted the outcome correctly.

Johnson Under Pressure

Moscow, Peking Reaching Point Of Change in Relations With West

WASHINGTON (AP) — The increasingly angry quarrel between Russia and Red China has now reached the stage where each country must consider radical changes in its relations with the West.

The turmoil in the Communist bloc exceeds even that of the Atlantic Alliance where France is pursuing a policy of independent action strikingly similar to the self assertion of Red China against Russia.

The Johnson administration is under heavy pressure from its China policy critics to find some way to ease tensions and improve relations between Peking and Washington.

Rule Out Change

But any real change in this relationship in the near future is ruled out by the experts, even those among the critics. All recognize that in China's present attitude of bitter political hostility to the outside world, the United States is slated for some years yet to play the role of archvillain.

Indeed the changes resulting from the political turbulence now buffeting Communist and Western powers alike could result in some severe embarrassment to President Johnson and the United States.

Nothing in Sight

One result may be to increase support for a movement certain to arise in the next U.N. General Assembly to make Communist China a member. U.S. officials would not be surprised if a majority of the United Nations' 117 members voted to admit the Red Chinese.

46 on Record

Official Says Russians Have 'Spy' Satellites

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Soviet Union has orbited 46 satellites which probably were spy-in-the-sky spacecraft, according to one of the Johnson administration's specialists on Soviet space activities.

"Nobody has suggested anything other than photo reconnaissance" for a particular series of unmanned Cosmos satellites, said Dr. Charles S Sheldon II, senior member of the National Aeronautics and Space Council's professional staff.

The council is the President's top advisory group on U.S. space policies.

Without Patterns

The 46 satellites — launched since 1962, including five this year — "don't fit any pattern" of scientific, navigational or communications type satellites, Sheldon said.

"They fly low - 100 to 200 miles above the earth — and after eight days they disappear from orbit," probably to be recovered so film inside can be removed, the space expert said.

Sheldon, who came to Orlando to speak to local members of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, said he doubts the Soviet Union intends to place warheads in orbit as a threat to the United States, however, because it could not do so without being discovered.

Concerning the race to the moon, Sheldon predicted the Soviets may soon launch a large unmanned space station and follow up with a smaller spaceship with men inside to rendezvous with it.

Victory for Bigots

Couple Gives Up Plan To Adopt Negro Child

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — "Have you checked the kids lately? One of them might be gone," a man said menacingly on the telephone.

Such anonymous callers, garbage throwers and other vandals have won, says the Rev. Albert C. Cohen. He and his wife are going to send their adopted Negro child, David, 2, back to the adoption bureau.

"We thought we could stand it," the Protestant minister said Wednesday, "but neither of us has the stamina to do the job."

His wife, Ann, said: "It was the worst decision we ever had to make. I know we'll have second thoughts, but we must do it. It's best for David that we stop right now before he's old enough to remember."

Blames Harassment

Cohen, 38, blaming harassment for their decision, said, "We thought we could stand up and be counted, but we're scared now."

"The judge would have signed the final adoption papers for David next month," he said, "but we have to give up. We've tried.

"We have suffered personal harassment and verbal harassment for almost a year now."

Cohen, a 1949 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, is the Protestant chaplain on the California State College campus here. He served as a line officer in the Navy for five years.

Four Children

The Cohens, who are white, have four children of their own. They moved to this growing Los Angeles suburb last July from nearby Whittier, where Cohen was pastor of a Congregational church.

"It was all right at first, although all our friends, black and white, told us it wouldn't be," Mrs. Cohen, 33, said.

"I feel the resentment now, and I see it. I'm afraid to take David into a store. I had no idea how frightening it would become.

"The idea of giving him up is hard. He's so much a part of the family, but it's worse if we keep him.

"In our neighborhood in Fullerton we have been well received. The people next door send their children over to play with David. But it's the mysterious phone calls and the threats."

The Menominee Report

A report by a special Menominee County advisory committee as submitted to the legislature is characterized by a theme of restrained optimism about the condition of the Menominee people who were set adrift by the Congressional act of some years ago terminating their status as U.S. government reservation wards.

Sen. LaFave, the committee chairman who summarized the document orally for the Legislative Council, remarked that all of the adults on what was once the reservation "who want to work" are now gainfully employed. The general national prosperity has evidently dribbled down to the Menominees in some degree. Mill employment is evidently good. There is some made work in the form of brush cutting along town roads and along other routes, under financing provided in a special act of the legislature last fall.

But the tenor of the report on the whole is pessimistic. The Menominees need continued state and federal appropriations for their most essential community facilities. The Menominee Enterprises lumber plant is under-capitalized. There was testimony in Washington, in connection with a big pending Menominee relief appropriation, that the tax liability upon the corporation will ultimately destroy its solvency. In the long term, it is clear to anybody who does not wear blinders that optimism about the condition of the county's inhabitants, or their prospects, is not really justified.

Assemblyman McKay of Ozaukee County, whose temperament sometimes leads him to utter ideas that more cautious politicians hesitate about, wondered aloud as he was listening to Sen. LaFave's summary of state and federal appropriations requested for the Indians. The per family cost of such sums for the little community appear formidable, indeed, as he pointed out. Is such costly assistance justified in the long range? Has the federal government abdicated a financial responsibility here and transferred it in effect to the state?

These are good questions, but they are also untimely. The termination act has been passed. It is not likely to be rescinded. The problem of the Menominees is with us. It will be a costly one. Let us hope that such further legislative action as may be undertaken is directed toward true rehabilitation, rather than mere handouts. We hope also that there are some officials in Madison who have noted with us that for all of the brave boasting of the Great Society leaders in Washington, they have been singularly indifferent to one of the most pathetic of the pockets of poverty in the Menominee Indian community.

Alternatives in Viet Nam

Critics of Administration policies in Viet Nam are most often asked in what way they would advocate changing them so as to permit United States forces to end the war with honor and without contributing to the spread of terrorism in Southeast Asia or the triumph of Communism. When the question is put in this way it is practically unanswerable.

One possible course as an alternative is to begin direct negotiations with the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong. But the danger in such action is of course considerable. As opponents have pointed out, it is likely to encourage Red groups in other countries to be enough of a nuisance so as to gain roles in coalition governments. The Communist strategy is to wage terroristic guerrilla warfare or to settle for a coalition regime. If our pressure eases on the Viet Cong, Red groups in Laos and Thailand are likely to have a resurgence of activity. Perhaps of even greater importance is the likelihood that other Asian governments with reasonably democratic rule will lose faith in American promises to supply them with help if they are threatened by Red revolution or outside Communist aggression.

While it is easy to spell out the mistakes the United States has made in the past, although they are not in any way acknowledged by the Johnson Administration, now that we have the tiger by the tail can we let go?

Actually our position that we will negotiate with Hanoi and what apparently have been efforts to encourage Russian participation in seeking an end to the conflict are inconsistent with our refusal to consider discussions with the Viet Cong. The argument is that Hanoi is supplying the Viet Cong and that Russia is supplying Hanoi. But some sources suggest that while there is reliance upon Hanoi by the National Liberation Front, control is local and not from North Viet Nam. If we are absolutely opposed to any gains by Communists, how can our spokesmen suggest that we would accept a coalition government and participation by the Viet Cong, after peace comes? If we oppose the Viet Cong because they have not been duly elected to national office, how can we staunchly back the government of General Ky who came to power through a military coup? If our purpose, as it has been stated again and again, is to bring peace, liberty and an end to terrorism to the people of Viet Nam, how do we accomplish this when the type of war we must fight means that at least two and probably more civilian peasants die for every Viet Cong we kill?

The trouble is that the terminology used in Washington to sell the war to the American public simply means nothing at all in South Viet Nam. And unfortunately it is the same sort of terminology used by the Communists with emphasis upon words like "freedom," "peace," and "justice."

There is no comparison between the kind of government we would like to see set up in Viet Nam and that which the Communists would supply. But the Vietnamese people are the ones who must eventually establish the sort of regime they want or will permit to be installed over them. At least that is what such experts as General Douglas MacArthur, President John Kennedy and Vice President Hubert Humphrey said at one time or another. And though the latter has completely changed his mind—or his tune—there is enough confusion in advice on policies now in Washington to suggest that negotiating with the Viet Cong may be reasonable.

We continue to increase our participation in Viet Nam for several stated reasons. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara insists it is to discourage Red Chinese aggression but since there probably isn't a Chinese fighting for the Viet Cong, however much they would like the victory, this argument falls flat. We also say it is to protect the South Vietnamese from vengeance. Wouldn't a coalition government have as good a chance of guaranteeing this as the present war does? And third, we are fighting to save our own prestige but this may be even more of an illusion than our fears of a Red China run wild. It is quite possible that our reputation in Asia has instead been sullied by our fighting what seems to many merely a continuation of France's "imperialistic" war.

The alternatives would appear to be clear. If Hanoi rejects all our peace feelers, we must either deal with the Viet Cong or wipe them out. Apparently the latter is to be our course, whatever the cost to the United States or the Vietnamese.

More Arms to India?

Now that its war with Pakistan is over, at least for a while, the Indian Defense Ministry is seeking an end to the Western arms embargo. The continued application of the embargo, spokesmen say, hampers India in its efforts to strengthen defenses against Red Chinese encroachment on the mountain borders.

When fighting between Pakistan and India broke out last September, the United States and Western European nations cut off all aid to both countries. Vice President Hubert Humphrey, touring both this winter, announced the resumption of economic aid from Washington. In March there came an official announcement that United States authorities would consider the sale of "nonlethal" military equipment to both India and Pakistan. But nobody has as yet spelled out exactly what equipment is "lethal" and what is "nonlethal."

Actually the United States is far more interested in where equipment sold or given to Pakistan and India will be used than its nature. Pakistan launched its war against India almost completely with American equipment and supplies. India had some Soviet and Eastern European arms since it had once spurned any American military aid. But when the Chinese began to violate borders, the United States rushed military equipment to India which Pakistan then claimed and, as it turned out, accurately—would be used against Pakistan as much as against the Red Chinese.

But while India is complaining that the embargo gives encouragement to that major American bugaboo, Red China, it doesn't want Pakistan to have similar protection. It would much prefer to receive no arms from the West at all than to have Pakistan get them too—especially since the Soviet Union has been rather generous along that line to India.

The purpose of American military aid to other countries has always been to enable the recipients to defend themselves against aggression. But in making such supplies available, we have also made it possible for India and Pakistan to wage more serious war against each other and the same sort of event could easily take place in a number of Middle Eastern nations. The episodes in India show that when we speak of aggressors, we really mean enemies of the United States, and not the age-old rivalries which may seem a great deal more important to the people of other countries.

U. S. Wise in Keeping Hands Off British Troubles With Rhodesia

BY MAX FREEDMAN

Events of the last few weeks have vindicated the wisdom of the United States in making no more than a limited commitment to the British government's attempt to crush the Smith regime in Rhodesia by economic sanctions.

Freedman

The United States has accepted the British position that Prime Minister Smith had no legal right to declare independence for Rhodesia, that his government is in rebellion against the British crown and all its acts and decisions are without legal authority.

In addition, the United States agrees with Britian that the colored majority in Rhodesia must be granted their full political rights under a new constitution. The central purpose of the Smith government is to perpetuate white minority rule to the last possible moment.

But the Johnson Administration has refused to accept the extreme advice offered by its own zealots that it should urge Britain to apply sterner and harsher penalties. Economic sanctions may well be inadequate. Military force may become unavoidable. But these decisions should be made in London without prodding or pressure from Washington.

NOT COLLAPSING

In January the British people were told by Prime Minister Wilson that the fall of the Smith government could be measured "in weeks rather than months." Things have not worked out that way. The regime in Rhodesia has been damaged but it as not been broken. Few observers predict its early collapse.

Prime Minister Wilson suffered his biggest disappointment when a white opposition to Mr. Smith failed to emerge. Sanctions did not produce an opposition. They unified the white settlers in opposition to British policy. Mr. Smith is stronger today than he was before the British applied sanctions and cut off trade and credit.

The Rhodesian pound is still backed by gold. Oil has been arriving by road and rail from South Africa. Rhodesia has been able to meet its daily oil ration of 85,000 gallons. The flow of oil has in fact been increasing. South Africa has broadened its trade with Rhodesia, so has Portugal and Mr. Wilson is not very convincing when he predicts a total Rhodesian collapse by the beginning of July.

There is strong evidence that South Africa has made a substantial loan to Rhodesia to enable her to stand the economic siege to which she is now exposed. South Africa is buying goods for Rhodesia and bringing them to the beleaguered country.

At the end of this month the tobacco crop, the foundation of the entire Rhodesian economy, will begin to be sold. The details of this sale are being guarded in the greatest secrecy. The Rhodesian government expects to sell a significant part of this crop to private buyers to defy their own governments by engaging in this forbidden trade. The rest of the crop will be bought by the Tobacco Corp. of Rhodesia, which will make advance payments to the growers even though the tobacco cannot all be sold on the world market. Mr. Smith estimates that all these measures will enable the tobacco growers to keep going for at least another year.

POLITICAL CONTROVERSY

Meanwhile the fate of Rhodesia has become a matter of acute political controversy in Britain. The Conservative Party is saying that Britain should negotiate with the Smith government even though it is an illegal regime. The Labor Party iss insisting that it will never negotiate until the Smith government agrees to a constitution that gives the colored majority its political rights within five or ten years.

Britain is reluctant to broaden the policy of economic sanctions to include South Africa and Portugal. Such an expansion of the boycott would hurt Britain's balance of payments. It may also be necessary for Britain to ask the United Nations to make sanctions mandatory for all its members against Rhodesia and any country still trading with her. If all else fails, Britain may have to use military force.

The United States has enough problems of its own without getting involved more deeply in Rhodesia. A good working rule would be to say that we would give the British no more help in Rhodesia than they are giving us in Viet Nam.

Grand Jury Inquiry Into Lobbying Has Political Overtones

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — That the state legislature is an inept, inefficient and often corrupt and irresponsible institution is one of the fixed beliefs in American political folklore.

Wyngaard

It has been the butt of humorist and satirists for generations. It is the favorite target of the contemporary television drama. One of the best selling current novels on the book market has a political theme launched from a California legislative environment and describes the statehouse lawmaking process in terms that could scarcely be more repellent.

The evident determination of the Dane County district attorney to call a grand jury for an inquiry into the behavior of the Wisconsin Legislature currently is, therefore, a surefire headline incident.

There is no sure way to assess either the purposes or the probable course of the grand jury proceeding arranged by District Attorney Michael Torphy, with the evident assistance of Attorney General Bronson C. LaFollette. Under the law, as officials meticulously explain, it is not permitted to disclose details in such matters. Yet the bystander can scarcely avoid some curiosity about the circumstances that scarcely before the ink was dry on the court order a few days ago, the Madison press was filled with what are described in the trade as authoritative rumors that the legislature, lobbying, and lobbyists would be the target of the investigation.

WAIT AND SEE

The fact that the officials in charge have been unable to preserve the privacy of their proceedings at the outset may be disturbing to some persons, but these men are entitled to the assumption, nevertheless, that they are acting in good faith.

Wisconsin has a law that meticulously governs the conduct of lobbyists and their relations with elected members of the legislature (as well as other public officials). Those laws impose the responsibility for administration on the attorney general and the district attorney of Dane County where the legislature sits and the state government has its operating headquarters. It may be presumed that the lobbying laws are no more likely to be self-enforcing than the income tax laws or the laws governing private morality. The Wisconsin lobbying law code is a stringent one, perhaps the most advanced in its concepts and controls of any in the country, but it is also true that there have yet been no conlusive cases prosecuted.

There will be those who will have their reservations about the grand jury proceeding as an expedition, noting that the two prosecutors involved are ambitious young politicians also. There will be others, sometimes disturbed by impressions picked up in random observation of Madison and state capitol life, who will see in the inquiry the possibility for healthful consequences, if only through a forceful and dramatic reminder that there are severe laws on the books and that the enforcement officials are aware of them.

DISREPUTE

The alternatives available to the prosecutor are technical issues upon which the laity, presumably, has no right to intrude. Yet there may be a middle view that regrets the probable impugning of the legislature as a whole in such a proceeding and would find preferable a more precise approach. As it stands, every present member of the legislature and every one of the hundreds of registered legislative counsel must probably expect the skeptical glances of his friends and neighbors pending the conclusion of the inquiry. Given the timing of the event, it can also be forecast with certainty that it will continue into the active political campaigning season, with possible consequences chilling for both parties and their principals to contemplate.

These are the eternal imponderables of politics which often make the politicians' career so dangerous and exciting. No power on earth can now perceive the political effect of this first inquiry of its kind in three decades. Partisans of both major causes will wait with bated breath for the next few months.

Strictly Personal

Peter Pan Is Really Very Sick Character

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Gradualness is the only means that truly conquers—all sudden changes and revolutions, when the excitement dies down are forced to retreat and retrace their path again through gradualness in order to consolidate their gains, or they perish.

Harris

It is still true, as Daniel Webster said, that there is always room at the top; what he could not anticipate was that there would be such frightful congestion at the bottom.

That state which aims at "defense" slides imperceptibly, but inevitably, into war; that state which aims at "peace" slides just as surely into acquiescence and slavery, only that state which aims at justice toward other states as well as itself can tread the narrow ridge between war and slavery—and history has not yet seen such a state, and perhaps never will, because of the very nature of national sovereignty.

The "telescopic" quality of time is possibly the most frightening aspect of growing older: from childhood to 25, we say, "How long it took to get here!", but 25 to 50, we say, "How fast it took to get here!" for time is relative not only to space, as Einstein showed, but to age as well.

It's always the semi-cad who is the most careful to be proper about the little amenities, for he wants to preserve his reuptation by concealing his character; it's only the man who is sure of his decent instincts who can afford to dispense with the amenities when necessary.

That "fresh air" entering a bedroom window on a winter night is in any way beneficial or healthful remains one of the most doubtful bits of pseudo-medical mythology in our time.

As the children were watching a rerun of "Peter Pan" on television, it struck me again that Peter is one of the sickest characters in 20th Century fiction—a sexless, infantile-fixated creature whose lack of capacity for growth is more menacing as a model for children than any of the giants or monsters in other fairy tales.

Learning what one wants to believe is no sort of learning at all, but rather an impediment against it, even when it happens to be true; for, as Andre Gide remarked, "The only real education comes from what goes counter to you."

Praying to "succeed" or to "win" is profoundly irreligious; praying that if we fail we bear that failure manfully is the only kind of supplication that can give us any help.

Sleep-walkers, no matter how old, are still looking for their parents' bed.

Shock Treatment Can't Solve All Mental Cases

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: It became necessary to place my sister under the care of a psychiatrist who gave her 11 shock treatments. When she was released from the rest home, the doctor stressed the importance of follow-up consultation.

Unfortunately, her husband refused to allow her to return for consultation, and she is now

worse than ever in her imaginations, personality, etc. My family and I hope you can help convince her husband of the importance of these consultations. — R.L.B.

Shock treatments do not necessarily cure anything all by themselves, even though in some cases they bring startlingly good results.

I don't know that anyone can say exactly how EST (electroshock therapy) helps, but apparently its action is to break up existing emotional patterns and erase, for a time, unhappy recent memories.

A patient with an emotional illness is not happy. Quite the reverse. He (or she) is reacting in illogical ways to pressures, fears, worries, stresses which are too great to be taken in stride.

No doubt this is an oversimplification of emotional illness, but it is, at least, a valid way of regarding it.

Different illnesses react in different ways. Certain deep depressions sometimes are quickly and greatly relieved by EST. In schizophrenia, however, EST, while it may bring abrupt improvement, may be only a stepping stone, an opening of a door, a way to make the patient begin to take useful notice of what is being told to him. In this way the electrotherapy works together with psychotherapy. The EST breaks up or loosens the rigid emotional patterns in which the patient is trapped. The psychotherapy — the consultation — helps him to understand himself, helps him to look at life in a different way, to recognize that fears are not as terrifying as they seem, or at any rate that he can meet them and deal with them.

Of course not every case can be cured, but complete cure is not the sole goal. Partial readjustment of emotional and thinking patterns is worth all the effort. If the patient gains enough strength and confidence to make his peace with the world around him, that is no small measure of success.

The goal is learning to live with reality, and this does not come quickly or easily. That is why the follow-up consultation is so necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend read your article about fungus infection, but lost the clipping. It mentioned drugs. Can you tell me the names again, please? —Mrs. L.L.

One is griseofulvin, in use for a number of years now, and another, quite new, is tolnaftate (Tinactin solution). Both are very effective in certain types of stubborn fungus, but they have to be used correctly and are prescription drugs.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been married a year and am pregnant. When I was one or two months pregnant, I was afraid to tell my husband because we couldn't afford a baby. We were taking precautions but it happened anyway. So I took quinine pills and castor oil. Now I am five months along and my husband is very happy, but I am afraid to tell him about taking those things. Could they deform or disfigure my baby? —Worried

No, they will not have harmed the baby. But as you are now aware, they do not prevent having the baby, no matter how many know-it-all people may have told you the contrary. I don't see what good it would do to tell your husband about the quinine and castor oil business, but from now on, why don't you stop being afraid to tell him important things? After all your worry, now you see that he's happy about the baby.

Note To Mrs. D.B.: Vitamins are necessary for health — and with a normal balanced diet, you get enough of them. More than you need won't help circulation or correct varicose veins.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." U S Air Force jets carried the air war to North Viet Nam s straight day A spokesman said Mugia Pass for the third they left the strategic highway to the Ho Chi Minh Trail clogged with the wreckage of 19 trucks five of which blew up This indicated they were carrying munitions an Air Force spokesman said

Other Air Force and Navy jets knocked out two bridges and strafed six junks in the North Vietnamese panhandle and laced again into the Red River valley rail line from Hanoi northwest to the Chinese border in a total of 67 missions Wednesday

7th Fleet Aids

Off South Viet Nam U S 7th Fleet destroyers joined air and ground forces in battering the Communists

Air Force and Navy F5 Freedom Fighters and F100 Super Sabres pounded Viet Cong positions only 25 miles north of Saigon setting off three secondary explosions and blasting scores of huts fortifications and mortar positions Pilots estimated 23 Viet Cong killed when they were caught in the open

An even heavier blow hit a Communist battalion which attacked the Bu Prang outpost 112 miles northeast of Saigon before dawn With flare planes illuminating the enemy positions artillery and 20 air sorties beat off the Reds during a five hour fire fight A spokesman said they left behind 151 bodies three 50-caliber machine guns a recoilless rifle and considerable ammunition

Casualties Light

Government casualties were termed light

U S Marines reported finding 65 more bodies in fresh graves around Quang Ngai 330 miles northeast of Saigon bringing the enemy toll in a seek and destroy operation dubbed Texas to 416 for the week Many fell in air attacks

The Communists came at the Go Dau headquarters from three directions striking first from an old graveyard

The fighting raged a mile from armored and aviation units of the U S 1st Infantry Division but no American troops were involved

The Vietnamese troops said they suffered only light casualties They displayed the bodies of 32 of their victims this morning along Route 13 for all to see A government spokesman said two Communists — one carrying North Vietnamese money — 20 Chinese made submachine guns and six K40 antitank weapons were captured

Favorable Verdict

From U S military sources came a favorable verdict on the effectiveness of the B52 raids that have been dropping tons of explosives on Communist hideouts in South Viet Nam almost daily since last June

A detailed study of the attacks by the eight-engine bombers who travel more than 2,000 miles across the Pacific from Guam shows they have ripped Viet Cong jungle hideouts apart and sharply reduced the Communist will and ability to fight, U S officials said

About 1 000 Reds a month were defecting when the raids started Now the rate has doubled the officials said, and many defectors told interrogators they quit the fight because the B52s made their life intolerable

Premier Nguyen Cao Kys political troubles continued as a general strike in Da Nang entered its second day It was expected to end Friday

The old imperial capital of Hue farther north, returned to normal after an antigovernment demonstration by 10 000 persons in front of the City Hall Wednesday

In both northern centers the demonstrators have been supporting Buddhist demands for a return to civilian rule The unrest began with the dismissal of Lt Gen Nguyen Chanh Thi as commander of the army's 1st Corps area, the five northernmost provinces, on March 10

such a meeting Their "dear comrade" note to the Soviet party leadership bore out the implication that they are still sticking to the forms of maintaining ties with the mother country of communism But Washington officials say the forms are about all they have left now

The break having reached this point, U S and other Western diplomats are looking at various possibilities for dramatic realignment in the world

Various Possibilities

—Soviet leaders Leonid I Brezhnev and Alexei N Kosygin may conclude a non-aggression pact or some other kind of friendship agreement with French President Charles de Gaulle when De Gaulle visits Moscow in late June

—The Soviet chieftains also or alternatively, may generate unexpected new enthusiasm for a treaty with the United States and Britain to halt the spread of nuclear weapons

—Red China, while pressing Red revolutionary programs in Latin America, Asia and Africa, may very well open new trade channels and perhaps even improve political relations with the countries of Western Europe

Some of the best informed American officials say there is presently no way of predicting whether any or all of these possibilities will come to pass What is apparent is that relations among the great powers are in a state of accelerated change bringing in a period which holds a grave risk as well as hopes for improvement

Athena Nips Venora Tri-Y In Basketball Duel Sunday

Basketball fans filed into the bleachers at St. Joseph Catholic School gym Sunday afternoon to cheer for their team. Screams filled the house as Athena and Venora Tri-Y clubs met in sporty combat.

Basketballs swished through the hoops as each team played a rough game using boys rules.

The 'crowd' of 15 cheered Athena on to victory with the final score being 25 to 18.

Pat Seeger and Pat Garvey coached the winning teams.

Lady Bird Takes Up Bowling

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has taken up bowling for fun, relaxation and exercise.

Unlike many of the nation's 2.5 million women bowlers, she doesn't have time to take the sport seriously. Nor is she a member of the flourishing 10-team White House league. She's a novice, admits it and likes it that way.

At 53, Mrs. Johnson has an enviable trim-slim figure, thanks to dieting and exercise.

She likes to swim in the White House pool, too. But bowling now scores for a strictly feminine reason. A First Lady has to get her hair done often enough for public appearances without taking frequent dips in the heated pool.

Easier on Hairdo

Bowling is just as handy — and far less tough on the hairdo.

Mrs. Johnson has bought a custom-fitted red bowling ball and bowling shoes.

Three or four times a week, she uses the two-lane bowling building next door to the White House. She has a locker for her equipment.

Mrs. Johnson is "the only member of the Johnson family who pursues the sport with vigor," says her press secretary, Elizabeth Carpenter.

Other Bowlers

The President is an occasional drop-in. Luci Johnson, 18, doesn't bowl, though her fiance, Patrick J. Nugent, does sometimes. Lynda, 22, often joins her mother.

Mrs. Johnson says she thinks she's doing fine when she scores 130 plus. This is considered just slightly above average for a novice. Lynda rates better than average.

The 11-pound bowling ball Mrs. Johnson uses is about average for women beginners.

Mrs. Johnson has invited most of the Cabinet wives to bowl with her. And often she says to someone who has come in for an official appointment: "Come bowl with me."

Given to Truman

The lanes were given to President Harry S. Truman by Missouri friends in 1946.

First installed in the White House at a reported cost of $5,000, they were later moved to the executive building. They have electrically operated pin setting machines that would cost about $20,000 to replace.

White House staff and employes use the lanes. About 72 men and eight women bowl in the 10 team White House league which has nightly sessions.

When Mrs. Johnson wants to bowl, she first calls to see if the lanes are free.

She's not a league member — and really doesn't want to be — but the White House group recently gave her an honorary membership card.

Designer Says Lady Bird's Shape Better Than Jackie's

NEW YORK (AP) — A designer who has made clothes for the last four First Ladies says Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has the best figure of all and that for her type she is equally as fashionable as the much lauded style pacesetter, Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

The designer is Mollie Parnis, the daughter of an immigrant pushcart peddler whose name became a household word when Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower dressed almost exclusively in Parnis-labeled garments.

Now Mollie is shuttling back and forth to the White House, whipping up Mrs. Johnson's spring wardrobe. She also has designed some for Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Harry S Truman.

Defends Image

"It's so unfair," protests Mollie, that the present First Lady's fashion image is dim, compared to her predecessor.

"It can't be that Mrs. Kennedy is always right and everyone else is always wrong," argues Mollie.

"Mrs. Johnson has a marvelous style sense, very prophetic. She chooses very good clothes. It's a cliche to say that she always looks like a lady but the fact remains that she dresses that way — very well gotten together."

Mrs. Kennedy has a tall, big-boned, athletic build, she says, not perfect in her judgment.

"I've never asked her how she arrived at it, but Mrs. Johnson is a very disciplined person. She probably exercises," decided Mollie.

Mollie never was one to mince words. Once when mannish, sportive womenswear was a fad, Miss Parnis advised buyers in her showroom looking for clothes to hunt, fish, shoot, or fly planes in to leave please before she began her collection of ladies' clothes for ladies.

Lasting Favorite

She has remained a White House favorite despite changes in administrations because "politics has nothing to do with fashion."

"I never knew any of the First Ladies until they were already in the White House," she says.

They had been buying her clothes long before they had prestigeous closets to hang them in, she explains. Finding it impossible to shop when they became First Ladies, they simply summoned the label names in their favorite garments. And very often up came Mollie.

Parnis designs have particular appeal to Washington women, Mollie says, because, "they are not too far out, not too far in. They are contemporary without being knacky, or wacky."

Joins New Christy Minstrels

Miss Ede Kellogg has been singing with the New Christy Minstrels since March 1. The folk singers, including Ede, will appear on the Bell Telephone Hour television show Sunday evening.

It's been a busy initial month for Miss Kellogg — the group has been appearing at university campuses throughout the midwest. On Saturday, they sang for Prince Philip in New York City.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kellogg, 1311 Lehmann Lane, first came to the attention of the New Christy Minstrels at the Outagamie County Fair at Seymour two years ago. Miss Kellogg was a member of the Mad Hatters. The two singing groups met after New Christy Minstrel performances during the annual fair.

Although the job requires constant travel, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg always know where their daughter is staying and singing — detailed itineraries are provided on a regular basis.

Before she is off on the next round of singing engagements, Ede will visit her family in Appleton the weekend of April 1.

Daughter Hurt Because Father Neglects to Carry Photograph

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 11 years old but I need help as bad as any grownup who ever wrote to you.

My sister is 15 and she is very beautiful. I am just average looking. If I was in a different family it wouldn't be so noticeable, but with a beautiful sister it keeps coming up all the time.

My father has always carried a picture of my sister in his wallet but he never carried a picture of me. I don't take a very good picture so I thought maybe if I took a really good one and gave it to him he would carry it.

Three weeks ago I took the money I had saved and I went to a photographer. I left my glasses off and smiled with my mouth closed so my braces wouldn't show. The picture came out good I thought.

When I gave it to my father he said it was nice and thanked me for it. But, Ann, he didn't put it in his wallet. It is still in the bureau drawer.

Should it matter that much that I am not beautiful? After all, I am his daughter just like my sister is. Is there anything I can say to get him to carry my picture? — Hurt Feelings.

Dear Hurt Feelings: I'll bet your dad is one of those busy men who has a lot on his mind. He probably meant to put your picture in his wallet and forgot. Show him this column, honey, and you will see that I am right.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's sister is one of those sexy but dumb women (age 24) who attract worthless men like a magnet. She was married at 18, divorced at 20, and now she is mixed up with a professional hockey player whose wife is in a mental hospital.

My sister-in-law told me last night that she is pregnant and the man wants to marry her but he can't divorce his wife because of where she is.

I spoke to a lawyer this morning and learned that such a divorce can be obtained legally in this state, under certain conditions — provided the mental patient is willing. This afternoon I went to see the wife and she couldn't have been nicer.

She said she would give her husband a divorce if he asked for one — that she would not want to be responsible for an out-of-wedlock child.

What can be done about this mess? — Standby.

Dear Standby: It sounds as if they have the wrong one in the mental hospital. The wife makes better sense than any of them.

Since the hockey player has never asked his wife for a divorce it seems pretty obvious that he has been stringing along your sexy but dumb sister-in-law.

He is obliged (legally) to support the child and take care of his girl friend's medical expense. Tell her. She probably doesn't know this either.

Confidential to How Shall I Tell Her?: Don't bother. She'll never change. Accept her good qualities and overlook the rest. Conceit is a very strange disease. It makes everyone sick but the person who has it.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Baths Just as Vital To Loss as Dieting

If you are counting calories reducing and touching your toes re to a reducing regime is are diet ing and exercise Beauty authorities point out that a you lose weight body fats break down and some of the waste material is excreted through the skin Consequently two baths a day are preferable to just one while Washing often with thick suds removes offensive odors and also impurities which can clog pores to impede natural reducing action A bath or shower after perspiring exercise also pays a bonus of comfort and beauty When you feel fresh and feminine you will look your loveliest

Nera White Stars

Nashville Wins Fifth Straight Women's Title

GALLUP, N M (AP) — Nashville Tenn , holds an unprecedented fifth consecutive National Women's AAU Basketball Championship today

And much of the credit goes to 30-year-old Nera White, called the greatest women's basketball player ever in the United States

Miss White, who spends weekends farming on a ranch near her Lafayette Tenn home took the Nashville Business College team in two Saturday night for a 59-33 victory over Plainview, Tex

Raytown, Mo edged unseeded Pasadena, Tex , 69-62, for third place in the 38th annual tournament

An overflow crowd of nearly 3 500 gave Miss White a standing ovation when it was announced she had been named to the AAU All Star team for the 12th straight year

This too, was unprecedented She also was named the tournament s most valuable player for the second straight year

Bouquet of Flowers

The 6-foot star was given a bouquet of flowers by women's AAU basketball chairman Nickee Mickelsen of Kansas City, Mo , and a trophy by Miss America 1965 Vonda Kay Van Dyke for her all star feat

A teammate Joan Crawford, was named to the AAU All Star team for the 10th straight year

Nashville wound up 24-0

Plainview Coach Harley Redin declared, 'Nera is the greatest I have ever seen in 11 years of coaching. She's the only woman who can do everything — rebound, defense, handle the ball and score

"She can maneuver like any man basketball player She's strong fast and doesn't make many mistakes "

Miss Mickelsen said, "Nera White is the greatest woman basketball player ever in America "

Nashville Coach John Head, who has been the Nashville coach for 30 years, said, "This has been Nera s best season "

Miss White scored 24 points and Miss Crawford had 18 against Plainview

This was the 12th year of AAU basketball for Miss White, who has played throughout the world with America's best women basketball teams

She started her career with four years of high school play at Lafayette and asserted, "I wasn t too hot in high school "

Two Russians Credited With Record Jumps

DORTMUND Germany (AP) — Russians Igor Ter Ovansian and Tatjana Shchelekanova were credited with world indoor record broad jumps Sunday in an international meet

Ter Ovansian went 27 feet, bettering his indoor mark of 26-10 Miss Shchelekanova s jump of 22 1 was 7½ inches longer than her listed record

Royals Take Playoff Lead

with 51 seconds left The Royals called time out and Hairston, former NYU star was called from the bench by McMahon

Hairston was fouled in a rebounding jam and cashed two free throws Then he stole a pass by Jones and Oscar Robertson was fouled seconds later for two more free throws Hairston completed his heroics by converting four more charity tosses in the closing seconds

McMahon called Hairston s pass interception the key play And Happy admitted that the pick off was simple and lucky because he happened to turn around at the right moment

The Royals have a chance to wrap up the series in Cincinnati Wednesday night but McMahon conceded he is worried The home team has failed to win in the first three games

'The home court edge doesn t mean much in the playoffs because games are so hard fought McMahon said During the regular season you tend to think that if you lost today, there s always tomorrow In the playoffs you don t have that attitude

End of Era Near

Auerbach, retiring after 16 years as coach of the Celtics, refused to throw in the towel, although many observers felt the end of an era is near The Celtics were dethroned after nine years as Eastern Division champions by Philadelphia and their seven year reign as NBA titlists is in danger

'We won t quit," Auerbach said in calling a morning practice today We just have to set our minds to the job of coming from behind again We re not dead yet. Wait and see "

The Royals' comeback overshadowed a tremendous shooting performance by John Havlicek who hit for 14 points in the third period and topped all scorers with 36 points

Cincinnati s Jerry Lucas who went to the sidelines for five minutes too have a left knee heavily taped in the first period and Oscar Robertson each scored 27 points Hairston finished with 21

Durocher Confident of Improvement

Cubs Eye First Division Berth in 1966

By BOB MYERS

PHOENIX Ariz (AP) — This is the start of a crucial week for the Chicago Cubs and Leo Durocher

After today s exhibition here with the San Francisco Giants the last club Durocher managed a decade ago the Cubs have only 12 more exhibition exercises to get ready for the April 12 opening of the National League season

The Cubs have remained in the second division for the past 19 years

Can Leo the Lion guide them into more respectable levels? The first division? Maybe fifth place?

Anything under eighth will be an improvement over last year

This is not an eighth place ball club ' roared the Lion when he took the job and ended a 10-year period of relative obscurity from sports headlines

How does he view the opposition?

'No one is soft in this league said Durocher

"Can Eliminate One '

"You can eliminate one club said Leo not bothering to identify Los Angeles and the two guys Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale

On paper he continued Philadelphia appears strong Cincinnati may have hurt itself trading off Frank Robinson

But they didn t win when he was with them noted Leo

The Giants?

They re tough You look down that line up the batters Third fifth sixth eighth any one of em can hit the ball outta the park Good pitching too

Durocher inherited at least three celebrated players Ernie Banks Ron Santo and Billy Williams who happen to be the Cubs finest hitters, and hitting is something the Cubs could use considerable more of, if you ll pardon the grammar

What pleasant surprises has he discovered?

'For one Ernie Broglio " snapped Durocher

The right hander acquired by Chicago from St Louis in June 1964 and troubled by a sore arm last season has looked more like the 21 game winner of 1960

The Mainstays

Larry Jackson Dick Ellsworth Bob Hendley Bob Buhl Broglio — these are the pitchers who might be called mainstays of the staff But there are others including a few youngsters yet to be considered and a lot of considering will be done this week

Young Glenn Beckert at second and Don Kessinger at short make up an admirable double play combination Improved hitting would be very welcome from both

Several young men John Boccabella and Byron Browne included are bidding for outfield jobs, and the Cubs are loaded with such extra base clouters as Harvey Kuenn George Altman and Wes Covington

Durocher loves a challenge And he may well get one this year

New Leader In Women's Team Event

Milwaukee Squad Hits 2,684 in State Tourney

WAUSAU (AP) Willows Golf Range of Milwaukee rolled a 2 684 to vault into first place of the Wisconsin s women s bowling championships Sunday night

The Milwaukee team replaced Blum s of Madison which had a 2 591 as the tournament concluded its tenth week of competition

Pat Schultz and Ruth Mitchell of Milwaukee combined for a 1 138 to replace Alvina Frye and Barbara Piggot of Oregon who had been leading in the doubles since the tournament opened Betty Todhunter and Fran Mersmit of Milwaukee rolled a 1 114 to tie Frye and Piggot for second

Myle Musser and Susan Peterson of Black River Falls took over first place in the D doubles with a 912

Elizabeth Varalli of Hurley moved into first place in the all events with a 1 682

Eldora Luther of Mosinee had a 584 to take over the Class B singles lead

U. S. Ski Group Urged to Seek More Team Spirit

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (AP)— The U S Ski Association was urged by its central jumping committee Saturday to start a program to instill more team spirit and to emphasize good conduct of American entrants in international tournaments

The recommendation resulted from concern of Harold Rud of Chicago chairman of the committee and Lawrence Maurin of Milwaukee an international ski jumping judge Both charged that jumping entrants at the recent world championships at Oslo Norway which both attended were complacent and lacked team spirit

John Balfanz of Minneapolis and Dave Hicks of Duluth Minn both Oslo competitors denied the charges However a majority of the 70 persons at the annual meeting of the committee agreed to present the recommendation at the central division s convention in Columbus Ohio next weekend

Rud was re-elected committee chairman for the tenth straight year

A 1966-67 jumping schedule was approved including Jan 1 Washburn Wis (training camp) Jan 22 Eau Claire and Racine Jan 29 Middleton, Wis and St Paul Minn Feb 5 Leavenworth Wash (national championship) and Wisconsin Rapids Feb 12 Rockford Ill and Duluth Feb 19 Ishpeming Mich and Wesby and Iola Wis Feb 26 Iron Mountain Mich

Lassiter Cops World Crown

Wins $3,000 in Pocket Billiards Championship Match

NEW YORK (AP) — Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N C , defeated Cicero Murphy of Brooklyn N Y 150-11 in a playoff Sunday night and won the World Pocket Billiards, Championship

Lassister ran 85 and out in the match for the $3,000 first prize Murphy picked up $1 500

Murphy forced the playoff earlier in the night by beating Lassiter 150-9 giving each player an 11 3 record in the 14-match round robin tournament Murphy ran 88 and out against Lassiter

After winning the title Lassiter a 47 year old bachelor said he will not play again until this tournament next year because 'I like to loaf and I like to live "

Chisox Extend Win Streak To 9 Games

Clete Boyer produced the winning run.

Choo Choo Coleman drove in the Mets' winning run with a single after Cleon Jones had walked and Ron Swoboda had singled. John Herrnstein sent the game into extra innings with a two-out homer in the ninth. Al Luplow homered for New York.

Cleveland and California committed a total of nine errors between them with the Angels making six. Jose Cardenal delivered a pinch triple in California's four-run 11th that broke a 7-7 tie.

Have 15-2 Record

The White Sox ran their Grapefruit record to 15-2 by whipping the Tigers. Jim Hicks hammered a three-run homer for Chicago and Jim Northrup connected for Detroit.

Bob Bailey and Jose Pagan delivered consecutive doubles in the sixth inning for Pittsburgh's winning run against Baltimore. Vern Law worked seven innings and got credit for the victory.

Washington rocked Kansas City for a dozen hits including six doubles. Don Lock had four hits, two of them doubles, leading the Senator attack while Phil Ortega, Mike McCormick and Tom Cheney combined for the three-hitter.

Charlie Smith belted a two-run homer that helped the Cardinals past Houston. St. Louis scored the winning run in the seventh on a throwing error by Astro outfielder Norman Miller.

Home runs by Tony Conigliaro and Mike Andrews highlighted a five-run second inning as the Red Sox whipped the Twins. The victory halted an eight-game Boston losing streak.

Ron Santo rapped a two-run homer and then drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly as the Cubs shaded hte Giants. Pitcher Bob Bolin homered for San Francisco.

Tony Cloninger went seven innings for the Braves, permitting four hits against the Dodgers. He also drove in a run with a double. The two teams, playing in Atlanta Stadium, drew 13,677 fans.

Doctor Speaks Out Against Use of Drugs in Athletics

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The American College of Sports Medicine ended a meeting Saturday after Dr. Allen J. Ryan of the University of Wisconsin spoke out against the use of drugs in athletics and predicted that the problem would increase.

Dr. Ryan suggested that athletes' use of drugs would increase especially if someone discovers a so-called harmless stimulant which would result in great improvements in performances.

The use of drugs as stimulators has been condemned in this country and abroad as dangerous and unethical.

"If you wish to stop professionals from using drugs," Dr. Ryan said, "you legislate against them and prepare to enforce the legislation and expect that ways will be found to circumvent the enforcement.

"The real key is education and understanding. No system of controls, no matter how elaborate or how expensive, can substitute for the dedication to an ideal."

Hurtubise Tips Lorenzen in Atlanta 500

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "I've never given any thought to quitting," said 33-year-old Jim Hurtubise, his fire-scarred face wreathed in a smile, as he described his victory in the seventh annual Atlanta 500 stock car race.

"This is the biggest race I've ever won," he said Sunday, admitting he is already looking forward to the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

The North Tonawanda, N.Y., driver, whose life almost ended in a fiery raceway collision two years ago in Milwaukee, gunned his 1966 gray and red Plymouth into the lead at the 158th lap and then outdueled Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., to the finish.

Hurtubise was clocked in 131.247 miles an hour for the 500-mile victory, his first, and pocketed $17,920.

Lorenzen, driving a 1966 Ford, was trying for his fourth Atlanta 500 victory but did not seriously challenge the stocky Hurtubise over the last 58 laps as a Chrysler Corp. product broke a four-year domination by Ford cars at the NASCAR classic. Lorenzen won $8,290 for second place.

Dick Hutcherson of Charlotte, N.C., in a 1966 Ford, and Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., in a 1965 Plymouth, finished third and fourth. Another 1966 Plymouth, driven by Jim Paschal of High Point, N.C., claimed the fifth spot.

Nicklaus Gets Double Eagle In Tourney

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the Golden Bear and one of the big money winners on the pro golf tour in recent years, shot the first double eagle of his life in the Greater Jacksonville Open Sunday.

Nicklaus used only two strokes on the 492-yard, par 5 18th hole at Selva Marina Country Club.

After his drive, Nicklaus hit a No. 4 iron. The ball hit on the green, took one big hop and then rolled straight to the cup and in.

Asked if it was the first competitive double eagle he ever had, Nicklaus replied: "It was the first one I've made any time, anywhere."

Golfer Cards Pair of Aces In Nine Holes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Andy Kandrack has been playing golf for eight years; and he says he never saw a hole-in-one

The 36-year-old steelworker sank two of them Sunday on suburban Green Valley public golf course. Kandrack used a seven iron on the 147-yard third hole and an eight iron on the 130-yard fifth hole to accomplish the feat.

Three persons playing with him and several others on the course witnessed the shots.

He finished nine holes with two eagles, two bogeys and five pars for a two-under-par 33. Kandrack, who said he usually shoots in the low 80s, didn't go back out for a second nine because he said the excitement was too much.

Bobcats Keep Hopes Alive

shot past Green Bay goalie Jim Mattson.

Stu Anderson, who received the George W. Calhoun Memorial Trophy as the Bobcats' most valuable player during the second intermission, was denied what looked like two sure goals.

Brilliant Save

Midway in the second stanza, Anderson skated in — smashed into pipes — and fired on the goal only to have Yurkovich make a brilliant turn away on the shot. Just before the period's end, Anderson faked Yurkovich to the left and fired to the right but the puck smashed into the pipe and bounced away.

Matson made two great saves in the early part of the third period but Johannson was not to be denied and with 5:28 gone he connected, after taking a pass from Jerry Schmalzbauer, to give the Mustangs a 2-0 lead.

The Bobcats continued to outskate the Mustangs but never being able to get that elusive first goal. It looked like it was all over and the crowd sensed it but then Devuono took a pass from Paul Coppo and powered the puck past Yurkovich.

Knotted Score

The fans sprang to life and so did the Bobcats and with 4:40 remaining Mayasich knotted the score at 2-2 with a shot into the open nets.

The play was set up by Colin Clarke and Anderson. Clarke skated in and passed off to Anderson in front of the cage. Anderson faked a shot to the right, drawing Yurkovich over, then passed back to Mayasich in the center who fired into the nets from the left side before Yurkovich could recover.

The Bobcats made two big attempts to go ahead in the final four minutes with a shot by Sullivan and another by Frenette being blocked by Yurkovich to send the game into overtime.

The overtime was short and sweet as the Cats took the puck after the face off and skated in. Mayasich passed off to Clarke who whipped it to the center as Sullivan came across. Sullivan reached behind him and slapped the puck over Yurkovich's shoulder to end the contest.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Time and the Montreal Canadiens are running out on Chicago's frustrated Black Hawks.

The Hawks, only National Hockey League club which has never won the regular season title, fell four points behind in their stretch race with league leading Montreal Sunday night when they were tied 1-1 by the Detroit Red Wings.

The Canadiens, meanwhile, rolled to a 3-1 victory over Boston that shot them within range of their seventh NHL pennant in the last 10 years. Montreal and Chicago each have three games remaining, including a head-to-head meeting Saturday night on the Canadiens' ice.

In Sunday night's other game Toronto whipped the New York Rangers 5-1 and climbed within three points of the second-place Black Hawks.

Coach Disputes Call, Ejected, Forfeits Game

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — University of Minnesota Baseball Coach Dick Siebert was thrown out of a game with Sam Houston State Saturday in an argument with an umpire, and in return Siebert withdrew his team and forfeited the game.

Sam Houston had scored the only two runs of the game in the sixth inning when the incident arose.

Umpire Harvey Reichle charged that Minnesota pitcher Mike McNair balked while throwing to Sam Houston batter John Fox. After Fox was allowed to bat again and hit a sacrifice fly, Minnesota third baseman Bob Fenwick complained about the umpire's original call and was tossed out of the game.

Siebert then rushed out of the dugout and was likewise thrown out. Siebert then pulled his players off the field.

GOP Won't Support Further Tax Increases, Laird Insists

Cutting Non-Military Spending Cited as Proper Financial Goal

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Republican leader gave notice today that the Johnson Administration could not expect any GOP help in enacting another tax increase

Rep Melvin R Laird R Wis said he was not acting as a spokesman for the Republican position at this time, but he intends to bring up the matter at the next meeting of the House Republican Conference, of which he is chairman

In addition, he said he plans to raise the question at the meeting of the Republican Coordinating Committee here next Monday This committee includes GOP governors the party's House and Senate leaders former Republican presidential nominees and various other party leaders

Additional Funds

Laird said he expects President Johnson to ask Congress for a tax increase this year but to delay the request at least until June when it might be accompanied by a request for additional funds for the Viet Nam war

Instead of a tax increase, Laird said, the major aim should be cutting of non-military spending

House Republican Leader Gerald R Ford of Michigan said Wednesday he is sure the administration will ask a tax increase and he does not believe Johnson can avoid asking for it before November Ford said he is not committing himself now on the position he will take

"In statement after statement and in several committee reports ' Laird said, "Republicans have urged the Johnson administration to set up a realistic system of priorities so far as domestic spending is concerned

Advice Rejected

On each occasion, that advice was rejected despite the fact that the rising costs of the war in Viet Nam have made it abundantly clear that we cannot do business as usual on the domestic front and still adequately support the war effort without causing an inflationary spiral or forcing the need for a substantial tax increase '

Republicans, Laird said, have gone the extra step" in responsible support of the administration's actions in Viet Nam and they have also displayed reponsibility in their positions on domestic policy

It is time " he said "for the Democratic administration the party in power to display an equal amount of responsibility in handling our domestic affairs '

The Johnson Administration Laird said should not expect Republicans to ' bail them out by supporting a tax increase until it displays good faith by setting a realistic set of priorities and making some meaningful attempt to adhere to them "

Reuss Favors End of Boycott Of Red China

Recognition Could Lead to Softening Of Peking Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U S should consider ending its opposition to the admission of Red China to the United Nations, says Rep Henry S Reuss, D-Wis

His Wisconsin colleagues don't agree

Reuss, who also advocated continued recognition of Nationalist China, said the U N participation by the Red Chinese could lead to a softening of Peking's hard-line foreign policy

"The United States should not stand in the way " said Reuss Wednesday in a House speech

He conceded that the Red Chinese would probably contemptuously turn down any two-China plan but said the proposal would demonstrate that the United States is not bent on isolation of the Peking regime

Suggestion Impractical

Rep Clement Zablocki of Wisconsin, a fellow Democrat, said the Reuss suggestion was impractical and wouldn't be accepted by either Taiwan or Peking

Zablocki chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee which recently held hearings on U S policy toward China said Red China had set impossible conditions for her entry into the U N

Rep Glenn Davis R Wis said Reuss sounded a defeatist call for retreat '

Rep Melvin Laird, R - Wis , said anyone proposing a "two-China policy ' is "living in a dream world '

Rep Robert Kastenemeier a Wisconsin Democrat, commented favorably

"I'm not sure that I would agree with each recommendation needs to reassess its policy in the light of new realities," he said "It's important to realize that China might get a seat despite our opposition "

Spectacular Judgment Day Discounted

Faulty Notions in Christianity Topic Of Theology Talks

SOUTH BEND Ind (AP) — Spectacular magical images of the end of the world were discounted at an international theological conference Wednesday as ' faulty notions" in Christianity

The Rev Barnabas Ahern consultor to the Pontifical Biblical Commission in Rome said many believers still ' continue to think of the 'last day' as a cosmic reproduction of Ngasaki and Hiroshima "

They see it "as something apart from every day which preceded it," he said, offering this description of their expectations

"God in his heavens will utter a magic abracadabra thunder will roar lightening will flash hurling balls of fire will smite to crisp cinder bones will rattle and lo and behold, we shall be with the Lord "

In the fourth day of a week long meeting of leading Catholic Protestant and Orthodox scholars the Rev Thomas Stransky Milwaukee-born priest now serving on the Vatican's Secretariat for Christian Unity said the Christian church is not limited to the Roman Catholic institution

It "is more extensive than what is circumscribed by the visible boundaries of the Catholic church " he said adding that other Christian bodies are part of this wider ' complex reality of the whole church

Father Stransky added ' All baptized Christians are in full or less full communion with each other in the one church full or less full members of the one church "

Sheboygan Man Abandons Search For Lost Parents

LAS CRUCES, N M (AP) — A discouraged Wisconsin man returned home Wednesday without finding his father and stepmother who disappeared on a private airplane flight last month

Mr and Mrs M R Stile of Sheboygan, Wis were last seen Feb 22 when they left Carlsbad in a twin-engine Beechcraft Travelair, supposedly for a vacation trip into Mexico

They were not missed until several days later when they failed to return to Wisconsin

Palmer Stiles of Sheboygan, the son and business partner of the missing man, launched the search which for the past five days included New Mexico Civil Air Patrol units

"I'm emotionally involved " Stiles said when asked about the CAP's suspension of the search Tuesday because of a lack of clues "But I can understand the unwillingness to commit a large number of persons to a search with a little solid information as we have '

Officials Quiet About Operations On Sunken Bomb

PALOMARES BEACH Spain (AP) — Operations to recover the U S H bomb missing off the Spanish coast appeared to be reaching a climax today But no official would predict exactly when the nuclear weapon would be hoisted aboard a waiting U S Navy ship

Two small ships were about five miles offshore at the point where the H bomb was located March 15

A midget sub was working with the two surface craft in an effort to snare the bomb from the bottom 2 500 feet down and attach cables so it could be pulled to the surface

Other ships remained at anchor near the shore There was a minimum of activity as though word from the sea depths was awaited

The bomb was flung from a crashing B52 bomber Jan 17

Man Returned to Minneapolis on Murder Charge

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP)— Earl Shivers 33 has been returned here from Madison Wis to face a first degree murder charge detectives said Wednesday

Shivers waived extradition Tuesday in Dane County Court at Madison and was returned to face a charge of fatally shooting David Brown 28 on Sunday night

Brown went to the front door of his home to answer a ring and was shot three times police said

Authorities said the shooting was the result of a love triangle' in which Brown was allegedly seeing Shivers s wife

Shivers was arrested by the Wisconsin Highway Patrol for allegedly driving more than 100 mph in a 70 mph zone on Interstate 94 near Madison

Sheriff's deputies said Shivers tried to hang himself in his cell at Madison

Chippewa Falls Man Killed on Slick Road

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An accident on a snow-slick Chippewa County highway has raised Wisconsin s 1966 highway death toll to 172

The toll stood at 184 a year ago

Victor Koskovich 47 of Chippewa Falls was killed Wednesday in a truck-car collision on slippery Highway 53 south of Chippewa Falls Chippewa County authorities said

Archbishop, Pope Meet

Catholic Stand on Marriage Cited As Barrier to Unity With Anglicans

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI and the Archbishop of Canterbury pledged today that their churches would work toward unity But the archbishop said afterward the Roman Catholic Church s stand on mixed marriage still was a major barrier

Archbishop Michael Ramsey made his statement on mixed marriage after he and Pope Paul had prayed together in the Pontifical Basilica of St Paul's and had issued a joint declaration committing their churches to an active program of collaboration to bring them closer together

That was the climax of the archbishop's historic three-day visit here—the first by an Anglican primate since the Church of England broke away from the Vatican in 1534

Not Enough

But the bombshell came several hours later at a news conference There the archbishop said thtat Pope Paul's recent easing of mixed marriage regulations "does not satisfy the consciences of Anglican Christians and other non-Roman Catholic Christians "

Dr Ramsey said he had told the Pope this in their private meeting Wednesday night to discuss ways better relations between the half-billion-member Roman Catholic Church and the 45-million member Anglican Communion

The archbishop said the issue of mixed marriages would have an important place in the discussions of a joint Roman Catholic-Anglican commission that would be created

Doctrinal Study

He said this commission would study doctrinal difficulties

The Pope s new regulation on marriage lifted the onus of excommunication from Roman Catholics married outside the Church It also eliminated the obligation of non Catholic partners in mixed marriages to make a signed promise that the children would be raised as Catholics But it insisted that the children must be raised as Catholics

The archbishop said that a careful reading of the new regulation "makes it clear it has not been issued as final "

He made it plain that in the joint discussions that he ahead Anglicans would press for even great liberalization of the rule

After the special prayer service, the joint declaration was read in Latin by Bishop Jan Willebrands secretary of the Vatican s Christian Unity Secretariat, and in English by Dr Ralph Dean, executive delegate of the Anglican Communion

The declaration said the Pope augurate between the Roman Catholic Church and the Anglican Communion a serious dialogue which may lead to that unity in truth for which Christ prayed "

It was greeted by applause from an audience of 3,000 in the large basilica where Pope John XXIII announced in 1959 that he was calling the Vatican Ecumenical Council

Most Teacher Graduates Stay In Wisconsin

MADISON (AP)—Most of the University of Wisconsin's class of 1965 who became teachers stayed in the state, but those who went elsewhere made more money, a survey has shown

Seventy per cent of the university s graduating teachers remained in Wisconsin where those going into elementary school teaching were paid an average of $5,015 a year Prof G Heideman said Wednesday

The 30 per cent who signed contracts in other states received an average of $5,314, Heideman said

At the secondary level Wisconsin graduates were paid $5 - 107 in Wisconsin Elsewhere they received $5 297

LBJ's Rights Bills Ready for Congress

Election-Year Proposals Deal With Housing, Juries, Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is ready to propose new civil rights legislation dealing with housing juries schools and public facilities

The administration's proposed civil rights act of 1966, which faces a tough election-year battle in Congress, has been on Johnson's desk for at least two weeks There has been no explanation of his delay in transmitting it, along with a message, to Capitol Hill

Johnson and Atty Gen Nicholas Katzenbach have given several members of Congress private previews of the bill And once it's submitted, Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary Committee is expected to call immediate hearings at which Katzenbach will be the leadoff administration witness

Should the bill become law—either in its present form or, as is more likelyl, in an altered version—it would be the third package of civil rights legislation enacted by Congress in as many years

According to sources who have seen the latest proposal, its chief provisions run along these lines

Housing Racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing—old and new, and even if privately financed—would be banned

While the attorney general could bring suit where he found a pattern and practice of discrimination the normal remedy would be for the prospective buyer or renter to bring suit against the seller or landlord accused of discrimination

Such legislation, which is expected to stir sharp controversy in Congress, would theoretically open up previously all-white suburbs to Negroes, assuming the Negroes could afford to move

Juries The administration proposal would be directed at both state and federal jury systems in an effort to end the all-white juries that prevail in many parts of the South

Where there was evidence of a violation, the Justice Department could ask a federal court to establish and enforce nondiscriminatory jury selection standards for the offending circuit or county

Intimidation This provision would make it a federal crime — with penalties graduated to fit the nature of a specific crime — to harm or intimidate persons attempting to desegregate public facilities

It also would empower the attorney general to initiate court action to end harassment or intimidation of Negro pupils (or their parents) who are attempting to attend previously all-white schools

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

No. Methods are one thing; parental attitudes, which are vastly more important, are another. Studies show that children can be and are reared with all kinds of methods strict, permissive, and everything in between. Children then turn out well or badly, depending largely upon how their parents feel about and toward them. It is easier for leaders and counselors to teach parents "methods" and give them "answers" than it is to instill the proper attitudes into parents. But methods and answers aren't nearly as important.

The whole problem of child-rearing is given a more detailed analysis in the booklet, "Your Child's Emotional Health." To get your copy, send 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) to "Let's Explore Your Mind," in care of The Post-Crescent, Appleton, Wis., 54911.

You're more likely to get a raise if you're well-liked!

True—— False——

True. A current theory in social psychology is that those who rise high in the emotional hierarchy of a business establishment often are the first to get a raise. Being like increases their self-esteem, and their improved confidence in themselves helps them rise in the business. With improved status, officially and emotionally, they are able to carry more responsibility, and so they continue to improve their standing through raise after raise. Another example of being nice to be near, maybe?

Easter Seal Campaign Hits Stride

The 1966 Outagamie County Easter Seal Campaign went into full swing Sunday, according to Richard Heronemus, campaign chairman.

More than 300 students from Appleton, Fox Valley Lutheran and Xavier High schools canvassed the residential areas in Appleton.

A neighbor-to-neighbor envelope solicitation is being conducted in Kimberly and Little Chute, with Mrs. Harold Winius as chairman, Black Creek, Mrs. Orville Strehlow, chairman, Combined Locks, Mrs. Carl Nagen, chairman, Shiocton, Mrs. Louis Tackman, chairman; Hortonville, William Morrissey, chairman; and Kaukauna.

According to Heronemus, the balance of Outagamie County will be covered by mail.

The goal is $6,000. The campaign will last until April 15.

Two Republicans To Talk April 11 At Conway Hotel

Three Outagamie County Republican organizations are planning "A Night With the Olsons" April 11 at the Conway Motor Hotel.

Jack Olson, candidate for lieutenant governor, and John Olson, candidate for attorney general, will speak at the event sponsored jointly by the Outagamie County Republican Party, the Outagamie County Federation of Republican Women, and the Outagamie County Young Republicans.

Representatives of all three groups will be in Green Bay tonight among the 99 delegates and 99 alternates authorized to attend the Eighth District GOP caucus. That meeting will get underway at 8 p.m. at the Beaumont Motor Inn.

Delegates and alternates selected at the county party's spring caucus last month also will attend the state GOP convention at the Milwaukee arena on Friday and Saturday, May 20 and 21.

Poster Receives 1st Place Award

SHERWOOD — Ann Kiefer, an eighth grade pupil at Sacred Heart School here was named first place winner in the annual Catholic Rural Life poster contest at the St. Isadore Convention in Green Bay.

Ann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kiefer, route 1, Menasha, entered a poster entitled "Showing God's Blessing," showing a globe on a table of food with a hand in the upper corner. Theme of the contest was "Food for the Table of the World."

Her entry was one of 34 from the Green Bay Diocese.

Sacred Heart School pupils who received honorable mention were Mark Preissner, Karl Broeren, Mary Peters, Donna Roehrborn, Peggy Ott, May Stumpf, Judy Buchinger, Patricia Schneider, Martin Thiel, Joan Preissner, Carol Gehl and Dale Broeren.

Sister M. Simona is art instructor at the school.

Cranky Gall Bladder Not the Whole Story

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a gall bladder operation several years ago but it didn't make me feel better. Now I find out that I have a hiatal hernia which I was not told about then. I am enclosing 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It."

Also can one have too much acid in the system, and can one find it out? — Mrs. J. C.

I have no doubt that your gall bladder trouble was real, and you needed the operation. That is why hospitals have "tissue committees," to study tissue that has been removed and make certain that it was faulty and needed removal.

However, one of the great problems in medical care is exposing the facts when two (or even more) problems are bothering the patient at the same time. When one ailment is identified, there is always the temptation to say, "Ah, we've found the trouble."

Consequently every doctor has to keep reminding himself: "Can there be something else, too?" Before surgery for gall bladder trouble, even when X-rays show gallstones, it is wise to study the stomach as well for ulcers, spasm, hiatal hernia as in this case, or any other condition which may be producing dyspeptic symptoms not unlike those caused by a cranky gall bladder.

It may then become a question of which ailment should be attacked first, or whether different treatments can be instituted together.

As to the question on acid, the commonly expressed idea of "too much acid" exists rarely if at all — in that sense. The upper digestive tract is acid. It has to be, to digest food. The blood, however, is normally alkaline.

True, there can be special and specific problems. Uric acid can be high when one has gout. But acidosis (a truly acid state) exists only when a patient is profoundly ill, as in such conditions as diabetic acidosis, or acidosis in a child with a high fever.

In a word, I wouldn't worry about acidity. If it actually occurs, you will be so sick that it will be unmistakable.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is an osteopath? My sister and her family all go to one. Is an osteopath an M.D.? What is his schooling and to what should his practice be limited? — E. C.

No, an osteopath is not an M.D. He is a D.O., or "doctor of osteopathic medicine," and so recognized by state laws.

Decades ago osteopathy began with the theory that illnesses could be corrected by physical manipulations. Obviously diseases come from many causes, not just one. So today a D.O. must have four years of training in a professional osteopathic medical school and at least a year as an intern, just as is the case with an M.D., and his license to practice conveys the same rights as accorded to an M.D.

As an M.D., I give my loyalty to fellow M.D.'s, but I cannot let this question pass without pointing out that the D.O.'s or osteopaths have sound training.

Dear Dr. Molner: My grandson is being given penicillin for an ear infection. Now he has been passing mucus streaked with blood several times a day. No pain or other symptoms. — Mrs. R. D.

Prolonged use of penicillin or other antibiotics can cause this in children (or adults). The antibiotic action changes the bacterial content of the bowel. The trouble may persist for some time after the drug is discontinued.

(Aren't you glad you bought a Pontiac?)

Sure you're glad you picked a Wide-Track Catalina back in '66. Because year after year the record book shows Pontiac with one of the best resale values in the industry. After all, used car buyers go for that handsome Pontiac styling and lusty performance, too. For the steady Wide-Track ride, and everything else that has made us third in sales every year since 1961. (We know it's still '66—still time to price a Catalina.)

Wide-Track Pontiac Catalina
(A big, powerful Pontiac for less than $3000*)

*Manufacturer's suggested retail delivered price for Catalina 2-door hardtop as shown. Optional equipment, state and local taxes, destination charges and dealer preparation charges, if any, extra. Transportation charges and taxes additional on all equipment installed.

14 Klansmen Charged In Civil Rights Killing

Accused in Connection With Fire Death of NAACP Official Jan. 10

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI filed charges today against 14 Mississippians in connection with the fiery nighttime slaying of a civil rights worker at Hattiesburg, Miss., Jan. 10.

Agents rounded up 12 men in Mississippi and a 13th in Houston, Tex., within two hours after dawn. They continued to search for Sam Holloway Bowers Jr., imperial wizard of the Mississippi Klan.

The 14 are charged with civil rights law violations stemming from the slaying of Vernon F. Dahmer, 58. Dahmer's home and store were burned and he died from burns after returning fire on his attackers.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said all 14 men are members of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Mississippi.

Others Arrested

Besides Bowers, he said, they include Cecil V. Sessum, 30, of Ellisville, exalted cyclops of the Jones County Klavern; and Howard T. Giles, 37, former exalted cyclops of the Ellisville Klavern.

The FBI complaint against the men indicated at least one had admitted taking part in the alleged conspiracy.

Dahmer was a past president of the Forrest County branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He and his family were awakened by gunfire about 2 a.m. Jan. 10 and found their home and nearby store engulfed in flames.

He died later in the day in a hospital. His wife and 10-year-old daughter suffered burns.

Violated 2 Laws

The FBI complaint accuses the 14 of violation of a 19th century civil rights law making it a crime to conspire to intimidate persons pursuing their constitutional rights. They are also charged with violation of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which makes it a crime to harm or intimidate persons who are attempting to vote or urge others to vote.

The FBI said Dahmer was engaged in a campaign to get Negro citizens of Forrest County to register to vote.

Each of the men charged, the FBI said in its complaint, was identified as a participant in the plot against Dahmer "by one or more individuals who gave account of the commission of the offenses and also admitted to agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation that they themselves had participated in the conspiracy."

The FBI said the men will be arraigned as soon as possible before U.S. Commissioner Jack H. Pittman in Hattiesburg. Conviction of violating both laws could bring maximum sen-

Red China Predicts Bigger Movements In United States

Communists Encourage U. S. Viet Nam War Demonstrations

TOKYO (AP) — Red China gave encouragement today to demonstrations in the United States against the Viet Nam war, saying the protests were only "a prelude to still bigger movements of the (American) people."

The Chinese staged their own rally in Peking Sunday to support "the American people's struggle against U.S. imperialist aggression in Viet Nam." The official New China News Agency said 16,000 persons, including representatives of more than 40 countries, attended.

An article in the Peking People's Daily on the weekend protest marches in the United States linked them with the recent renewal of Negro rioting in the Watts area of Los Angeles. The official party newspaper described these events as "signs of a far-reaching change taking place in the United States."

New Awakening

"The American people's new awakening and the recent developments in their struggle show that the newborn America is marching forward," the article said.

These words echoed the line of the principal speaker at the Peking rally, Liao Cheng-chih, vice chairman of the China Peace Committee. Peking radio quoted him as saying that the Chinese admire and firmly support the antiwar movement in the United States.

"This once again demonstrates that on the Viet Nam question the American people stand on the side of the Vietnamese people and not on the side of the U.S. government," Liao said.

Growing Feeling

North Viet Nam also said the rallies showed a growing antiwar feeling in the United States. The North Vietnamese Communist party paper Nhan Dan spoke of a common struggle by the Vietnamese and American peoples to "defeat the U.S. imperialist aggressors."

Similar demonstrations were held during the weekend in several foreign centers as well as in a score of cities across the United States.

Nearly 7,000 persons assembled in Rome's Piazza del Popolo to hear leftist speakers at a Communist-organized rally denounce "American aggression" while 2,000 persons attended a

New Cabinet Is Selected In Indonesia

Form Government After Week of Tough Bargaining

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A quiet general, a respected sultan and a shrewd politician emerged today as the key men in Indonesia's new Cabinet.

President Sukarno, standing under an ornate crystal chandelier at his palace, Sunday night announced formation of the new government after a week of tough bargaining.

The key men are Lt. Gen. Suharto, who took over the government March 11 after violent student demonstrations against pro-Communists in the previous government; the Sultan of Jogjakarta, Hamengku Buwoni IX, and Adam Malik, who headed Murba, an anti-Communist Socialist organization which was banned in 1965.

High Court Okays Rights Prosecution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court approved today federal prosecution of three law officers and 14 other persons in the 1964 slaying of three young civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss.

Justice Abe Fortas delivered the unanimous decision. Justice Hugo L. Black noted that he concurred in the judgment.

Fortas said the Mississippi case involved rights under the Constitution's guarantee of due process of law. He said the high tribunal could not agree that the charges against the 14 individuals who were not law officers could be dismissed because they were nonofficial defendants.

In a companion case, the court revived federal charges in the slaying of Negro educator Lemuel Penn of Washington, D.C., who was killed on a Georgia highway in July 1964.

Justice Potter Stewart delivered the court's opinion in the Penn case. He said the right to interstate travel is a constitutional right and federal law is properly brought into play when that right is denied.

Red Carpet, 21-Gun Salute

Johnson Greets Mrs. Gandhi On Her Arrival in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gave India's peace-seeking lady prime minister a red carpet welcome to Washington today.

A 21-gun salute sounded as the President and Mrs. Johnson greeted Indira Gandhi in a late-morning ceremony at the White House.

Mrs. Gandhi, accompanied by her two young sons but no Cabinet ministers, began a two-day state visit to Washington and a series of private talks she hopes will "serve the purpose of better understanding so that both the United States and India are strengthened in the common endeavor of promoting peace."

The prime minister outlined her views on the meeting Sunday shortly after an Air Force jet flew her and her small party from Paris to Williamsburg, Va.

Understanding Needed

The world sorely needs "a closer understanding of nations and the aspirations of their people," she said Sunday night in a prepared statement. "I have come to the United States on such a quest."

"India's relations with the United States have been traditionally close and cordial, but friendship is something of which there can never be too much," she said.

Mrs. Gandhi spent the night in the historic Allen Byrd house in Colonial Williamsburg. An Air Force helicopter was assigned for today's 60-minute flight to Washington.

Immediately after her White House arrival, Mrs. Gandhi and the President held their first private talk.

In the evening she will dine with the President and Mrs. Johnson at a formal White House dinner. Tuesday, she will again talk privately with Johnson before leaving for New York and three more whirlwind days of speeches and meetings.

One topic of conversation between Mrs. Gandhi and Johnson will be Viet Nam. She is president of the International Control Commission, the Polish, Indian and Canadian agency set up to oversee the 1954 Geneva agreements in Viet Nam.

They also are expected to discuss future economic arrangements between America and India and review the international situation. The United States suspended $435 million in long-term economic aid to India when the India-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir erupted into a military clash last year.

Seen as Significant

North Vietnamese At Soviet Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. officials attach great importance to the fact that North Viet Nam is being represented at this week's Soviet Communist party meeting by one of the chief policymakers under President Ho Chi Minh.

The mission to Moscow of the North Vietnamese Communists leader, Le Duan, could have a significant bearing on the future course of the war in Viet Nam.

Some European Communist diplomats say privately they believe Soviet authorities will make an effort to persuade the North Vietnamese delegation to give serious consideration to peace moves.

The Eastern European diplomats speculate that with the massive buildup of American power in Southeast Asia the North Vietnamese must be compelled sooner or later to face the fact that the conflict is going against them and the hopes they had for victory a year ago are fading rapidly.

The Soviet government was cochairman with Britain of the 1954 Geneva Conference and a willingness on its part to join Britain in reconvening the conference would be a major step toward negotiations. The Soviets, however, are obviously unwilling to act without North Viet Nam's agreement and willingness to participate.

The Viet Nam situation drew fresh comment over the weekend from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford.

Ackley Says Food Prices Hit Plateau

NEW YORK (AP) — Gardner Ackley, President Johnson's chief economic adviser, said he believes food prices are going to start leveling off.

The hog shortage and other factors which kept food prices rising last year have changed, he said on the NBC-TV "Meet the Press" program.

It might be optimistic to look for an end to food price increases, he said, but he does not expect them to keep going up as they have been.

Ackley said he does not favor a tax increase now because it is not necessary. However, if the need arises, he added, he won't hesitate to ask for one.

He said he sees no need for price controls, and no danger of a recession or "a slideoff in economic expansion."

Centaur Test Tuesday

Space Agency Shoots Orbiting Observatory

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency launches an astronomical observatory today and follows it up Tuesday with an important test launching of the Atlas-Centaur rocket.

An Atlas-Agena hurled the observatory with a bundle of telescopes into space.

The satellite, named OAO for Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, will give man his first clear look at the stars and celestial objects above the distorting influence of the earth's atmosphere.

Scientists say that if OAO works, it will be the greatest advancement in astronomy since the invention of the telescope. The satellite is the heaviest scientific payload ever built by the United States for operation in space. It weighs 3,900 pounds.

Peer Into Space

Its telescopic eyes will peer millions of miles into space to study mysteries of stellar objects. Scientists are particularly interested in learning the age of relatively young stars, information that might provide clues to the origin of the stars and thus the universe.

The Atlas-Centaur is scheduled for a 9 a.m. liftoff Tuesday. The main goal will be double ignition of the Centaur upper stage, which would be the first time a hydrogen-powered engine has been ignited twice in weightless space.

Liquid hydrogen is a tricky fuel which must be cooled to 423 degrees below zero. Taming it has been a major problem in the Atlas-Centaur development program. As a result, only a single Centaur burn will be used to launch a Surveyor spacecraft toward a soft landing on the moon in May.

Restricts Time

The single burn restricts the number of days and minutes the launch team has to fire the rocket each month when the moon is in position.

If Centaur successfully fires twice Tuesday, later Surveyor and Mariner planetary shots will use this procedure.

The rocket Tuesday will carry a dummy Surveyor to hurl toward a spot in space 236,000 miles away which, for test purposes, represents the moon.

The results are important to Apollo man-to-the-moon flights because the Saturn 5 moon booster will have a hydrogen-powered upper stage which must be fired twice to send the astronauts into the proper lunar path.

Democrats Call For Cease-Fire In Viet Nam

Oshkosh Delegation At Manitowoc Offers Substitute Measure

MANITOWOC (AP)— Wisconsin's Young Democrats called for a multilateral cease fire in Viet Nam at their state convention Sunday.

The platform resolution was passed as a substitute amendment introduced by the Oshkosh delegation in place of one approved by the platform committee which called for an immediate cease fire in Viet Nam.

The approved resolution also called for the "quickest possible beginning" of negotiations between the United States and the National Liberation Front in South Viet Nam.

The substitute resolution met with the approval of Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis. He told the convention delegates that the resolution was "far more realistic than the one originally contemplated."

Defeat Purpose

Zablocki, however, was not in accord with a resolution calling for negotiations with the NLF. "To select them as representatives of South Viet Nam is defeating the purpose of a peace conference," he told the delegates at the closing session Sunday of the three day meeting.

Zablocki told the delegates he supported recent escalation of military operations in Viet Nam as necessary for the good of American troops there.

Zablocki said the President's policy only calls for a halt to aggression.

Destroy Mine Factory

B52s Drop Explosives in Swamps Ahead of Advancing U. S. Marines

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s poured 100,000 pounds of explosives on thick mangrove swamps 18 miles southeast of Saigon today only a mile or so ahead of American Marines sweeping the river approaches to the capital.

A huge orange fire ball and thick black smoke curled from the swamps after the eight-engine bombers unloaded their 750-pound bombs. An Air Force spokesman said a Communist jungle mine factory hidden among mangroves 40 feet high apparently had been obliterated.

He described the strike as "the most awesome and devastating thing I ever have seen."

VC Stronghold

While the blasts from the bombardment echoed across Saigon, two other waves of B52s from Guam unloaded their massive bomb loads on Tay Ninh Province, an old Viet Cong stronghold and reputed jungle headquarters of the National Liberation Front. The bombers attacked sectors five miles apart near the Cambodian border about 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

Bad weather kept carrier planes from striking North Viet Nam Sunday, but Air Force fighter-bombers flew 18 high-altitude missions picking out their targets by radar. Among them was the Mugia Pass, a juncture of two strategic routes to neighboring Laos, where U.S. jets caught a truck convoy last week.

In the South, Air Force jets blew up 34 sampans and three large motorized junks in raids over the Mekong Delta south and west of Saigon Sunday, a spokesman said.

Ground Action

In the central highlands near the Cambodian border, U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops destroyed 15 huts with sleeping racks and 30 foxholes, found a tunnel complex and trail leading to the frontier and surprised a North Vietnamese soldier as he woke up this morning. He was shot as he tried to flee.

Political unrest took an increasingly anti-American tone with new demonstrations against Premier Nguyen Cao

Negro Boy Shot by Watts School Guard

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A Negro boy was shot and wounded by a security guard Sunday night on the campus of Jordan High School—the reported festering ground of a one-day riot in the Watts area two weeks ago.

The wounded youth, identified as Robert Lewis Smith, 16, was hit in the groin. He was listed in satisfactory condition at a hospital, police said.

Officers said the guard, Charles Hawkins, told them he surprised Smith and three other boys in the act of a school burglary.

An outbreak in Watts March 15 left two dead and several injured.

Wisconsin's Bulky Audit Report Has Its Hidden Rewards

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The bulky annual audit report on the state government is typically an austere and forbidding document that attracts little notice from

Wyngaard

most readers The importance of the report is not in its readability, but in its proof that state financial operations are being audited closely and regularly

Yet the persistent reader sometimes finds his rewards, as in the disclosure in the most recent volume that the principal operating agencies are now spending more for telephone communication than on postage That ratio would have attracted some notice in the legislature a couple of decades ago when tax dollars were extracted less easily from the body politic Curiously, the telephone bills are also higher than the total for general office supplies, the report shows

There has been intermittent criticism about the telephone bills piled up by the legislature Yet it is shown that half a dozen operating departments have higher toll costs than does the legislative department which last year was billed for about $31,000

Total public employment in the state continues to grow and the reason is not as might be supposed the continued expansion of federal government services The most significant increases in the public service employe complements are in state and local government Total Wisconsin governmental jobs rose by more than 13 000 last year to a new record high of nearly 206,000 representing about 12 per cent of the civilian and non farm work force of the state

Taxpayer organizations may make a fight against the provision in the vocational school distributing law which authorizes the new district vocational school boards after 1970 to incur debt

The objection is that the boards will consist of appointive rather than elective members The cautious taxpayer clubs believe that only officials who are directly responsible to the voters should be given such borrowing powers

State Sen J E Leverich of Sparta one of the seniors of the Republican state senate caucus intends to run for a new term in his reorganized district although he has not yet made a formal declaration I tell everybody who asks that I will run," said the veteran politician on a Madison visit the other day His new district awkwardly embraces new territory in which he has not run before, including Eau Claire county

There will be some eye-brow raising in his party about the characterization by Democratic Chairman Louis Hanson of Assembly Speaker Robert Huber as "in truth the leader of the liberal movement in Wisconsin"

What about such ranking party spokesmen as Sens Nelson and Proxmire or Lt Gov Patrick J Lucey, or even Rep Clement Zablocki of Milwaukee the dean of Wisconsin Democrats in the Congress and a man who has risen to higher rank and has served longer there than any other Democrat their friends may ask?

Hanson made his comment as he named Huber chairman of the forthcoming Democratic state convention as a tribute to the speaker's work in the assembly where by common consent he has done a spectacular job of holding together a slender party majority

The comment of Sen Robert P Knowles the Republican state senate majority leader, that legislative office in Wisconsin will be full-time within a comparatively few years and that the legislature will meet annually instead of biennially reflects his studies and experiences with legislative systems of other states He is the immediate past chairman of the National Conference of Legislative leaders In most states there is a growing realization that the challenge of legislative responsibility has out-grown the traditional calendar, schedule of compensation, and resources available to representatives in staff and facilities

The Knowles view is shared by many of the reflective members of the present Wisconsin legislature, but few of them are inclined to speak out There are reservations about public reaction One idea that has been considered is the creation of a "blue ribbon" citizens commission to consider problems of legislative organization and operations and their adequacy for today's conditions

The statehouse speakers bureau organized some months ago to send state department heads over the countryside as guest lecturers and speakers at public meetings has been only moderately successful One probable reason is the general public awareness that Gov Knowles is the most energetic speaker and traveller the Wisconsin executive office has had lately, and the inclination of most local clubs to ask for his services rather than one of his lesser known subordinates

Democrats Give Convention for '67 to LaCrosse

Post-Crescent News Service

MANITOWOC — Green Bay lost and La Crosse and the state Democratic party chairman won here Saturday at a meeting of the party's administrative committee

La Crosse won and Green Bay lost as the western Wisconsin city was chosen as the site of the 1967 convention, with Fond du Lac running a poor third

Hanson "won" the job of continuing as state chairman when he denied rumors he was going to resign to opposed Melvin Laird, 10th district congressman.

Green Bay didn't exactly lose, however, because, although county officers put in a bad, it seemed more routine than serious. The state convention was held here last year, and both parties prefer to spread conventions among various cities.

La Crosse last had a state Democratic convention in 1963. This year's convention will be held in Madison beginning June 10.

Potato Growers Plan 61,000 Acres for '66

Green Bay Diocesan Group Admitted as Science Unit Affiliate

OSHKOSH — The Wisconsin Society of Science Teachers Saturday afternoon admitted the Green Bay Diocesan science teachers as an affiliate unit, the first such parochial school group to become affiliated with the state organization.

Saturday afternoon's business session concluded a two-day meeting of some 200 science teachers held at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Sinc Eau Claire will be the scene of next year's convention, all officers elected were from that area. They are Thomas Ritzinger, Rice Lake, president; Glenn Palmer, Chetek, vice president; John H. Klipstein, Wausau, secretary, and Robert Byberg, Hayward, treasurer.

Serving as officers for this year's convention were Merlin Passow, Oshkosh, president; John Gundlach, Neenah, vice president; Robert Showers, Green Bay, secretary; and John Long, Menasha, treasurer.

Throw Away Your Denture Adhesive

New Dental Discovery Ends Need for Pastes and Powders

New York, N. Y. (Special) — After years of research, scientists have discovered an entirely new substance to make false teeth fit perfectly. Denture wearers report such success with this new substance in refitting loose dentures that they no longer need paste and powder adhesives

This new dental discovery is a soft, pliable plastic that is applied directly to dentures from the tube. User then inserts dentures into mouth and bites down Instantly this new substance molds to the exact contours of mouth and gums, holding dentures firmly in place through soothing suction — so powerful that even those with difficult lowers can laugh, talk and eat anything with complete confidence. Looseness, slipping, and clicking disappear. Sore spots are quickly relieved. One application lasts weeks, staying soft and pliable in use. Nightly cleansing does not wash it away, yet it is easily removed when desired. This substance now makes it possible to refit and reline worn dentures at home, saving over $100 on costly relining work.

This new substance is now available at drugstores under the name CUSHION GRIP®, with a full money-back guarantee. Get CUSHION GRIP today and end the need for paste and powder adhesives forever!

Stockbridge School Asks Federal Grant

$27,000 Aid Requested for Remedial Reading Program

STOCKBRIDGE — A $27,000 federal grant will be requested by the board of education to finance a six-week summer remedial reading program.

Funds under title 1 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 will be used for salaries, equipment and transportation. Three teachers will be required. One for primary, upper elementary and secondary level.

Included in the program will be weekly trips to cultural points, reading machines, film strips and movies.

Qualify for Program

Remedial reading is aimed at students having a difficulty in school. There are about 90 to 110 students in the district who can qualify for the program.

It was originally hoped that the school could use the money for kindergarten, but this type of general education is not included in the grant.

State department of public instruction approval is required.

The board accepted Supv. Prin. Paul Dobias' recommendation that participation in cooperative education training program be authorized.

He described the program planned for junior and senior boys at Brillion. Dobias, in a survey, determined about 25 would participate in the program at Stockbridge.

Accept Bids

A bid of $2,500 was accepted from Coleman School Supply Co. for 52 two-tier lockers. The board also purchased 100 locks for $104 from the firm

The board agreed to pay transportation expenses for the home economics students who will attend a home show in Milwaukee. They considered the trip educational and authorized payment despite an exhausted transportation fund.

Dobias told the board four teachers have returned their signed contracts. Others have indicated verbal agreement with the terms.

Pick Bargaining Agent

NLRB Orders Representation Vote at Brillion Iron Works

BRILLION — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has ordered an April 22 bargaining representation election for employes of the Brillion Iron Works.

The company's employes have been divided into two classes for the balloting; all journeymen and apprentice patternmakers, and all production and maintenance employes, including plant clerical employes and truck drivers.

The first group will vote on whether to be represented by the Patternmakers League of North America, Milwaukee Association, AFL-CIO; United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO; Brillion Iron Workers Independent Union; or by Allied Industrial Workers of America, AFL-CIO, or by none.

The latter group will vote on whether to be represented by the United Steelworkers of America, Brillion Iron Workers Independent Union, Allied Industrial Workers of America,or none of them.

The Brillion Iron Workers Independent Union now represents all workers at the plant.

The Steelworkers union filed the initial petition for a representation election among the workers, and the Patternmakers union filed the initial petition for an election among the craftsmen.

Results of Vote

The workers have been divided into two groups because the Patternmakers seek representation of only the craftsmen, while the other unions seek plantwide representation.

If the Patternmakers union wins a majority of the craftsmen's votes, it will represent that group while another union will represent the rest of the workers. If the Patternmakers do not win a majority of the craft votes, one union will represent all the workers.

The present contract between the union and firm expires April 15. Negotiations for a new contract will be delayed until a union, or unions, gain certification.

The most recent representation election was in 1961 when the Steelworkers and Teamsters sought to gain representation authority, but the independent union was successful in retaining its bargaining authority.

Hilbert Has 10 Students On 'A' List

HILBERT — Qualifying for the special "A" honor roll at Hilbert High School for the third nine-week period are 10 students, including five seniors, three juniors, a sophomore and a freshman.

Seniors named are Kenn Frank, Gloria Heimerl, Lynn Johnson, Joan Schabach and Doryn Schwalenberg. Juniors are Linda Behnke, Harlan Hackbarth and Patricia Schroeder. Judith Hetzel is the lone sophomore and Sandra Kees, the only freshman to qualify.

Knowles, Laird Seek Broader GOP Support

Disgusted Democrats Welcome, 7th District Caucus Group Told

STEVENS POINT — Broadening the base of support for the Republican Party was urged here Sunday at the Seventh District GOP Caucus by Rep. Melvin Laird, Marshfield, and Gov. Warren Knowles.

"We welcome Democrats who are disgusted with the Democratic Administration in Washington and we Welcome Independents." Laird said.

Laird went on to blame the Administration for inflation and termed the reinstatement of selective excise taxes "a Johnson's national sales tax."

Turning to the Viet Nam conflict and the lack of policy statement Laird said: "I defy anyone in the United States except the President to state what the policy of this government is in Southeast Asia at this very minute."

Fish Praised

Knowles also calling for a broader, more active party, said, "We can't have a social club. We can't have a private organization."

In contrast to the knuckle rapping he received at the fourth and ninth district GOP caucus, Ode Fish, Hartland, state GOP chairman, won the praise of Knowles, Laird and other Republican officials who addressed the delegation.

Palmer Myra, Iola, was named to the credentials committee for the state convention and Gordon Dickey, Menominee County, will be an alternate on the committee.

Homeowners Told to Keep Old Tax Receipts, Records

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Mary Feeley:

I recently sold my home. I have the tax receipts for over 50 years. How long does one have to keep receipts like these?

Mrs. C.B.M., Downers Grove, Ill.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Now that you've sold the house, you can throw out the tax receipts. But you other homeowners — don't be too hasty. As long as you have property, there are a few records you'll want to keep, too. These include the record of the purchase price and records of improvements of that property. Also, hang onto tax receipts until you, like Mrs. M., have turned the property over, formally and officialy, to some new owner.

Dear Miss Feeley:

How should I make out the beneficiary on my insurance policy if I want to keep it from going into my estate? Can I make my brother the beneficiary in order to accomplish this?

G.S., Hamilton, Ohio

Dear G.S.:

Before you take decisive action on turning your policy over to another person, I think you'd do well to talk to a lawyer as well as to your insurance company. Your lawyer may be able to point out some facets of such a step that have not occurred to you. As for procedure, if you do decide to make your brother your beneficiary and turn the policy over to him:

Ask your insurance company for a form which you must sign, making over to your brother an absolute assignment of this policy. This means you're making an absolute gift of it. You give up all rights of ownership such as the right to borrow on the policy, to receive dividends, to elect settlement options, and to name the beneficiary. Send the policy back to the insurance company, along with this signed form.

The company will then send the policy to your brother, since he should have possession of it. Your brother can then ask the insurance company for a form which he fills in, to rename the beneficiary if he so desires — or to name himself.

You'll want to ask the insurance company what the value of your policy is, for gift-tax reasons. If the value of the policy equals or exceeds $3,000, you should file a gift-tax return. You may not have to pay any tax, because this gift could be charged against your annual exemption of $3,000 — or against your lifetime exemption of $30,000.

Keep in mind that the face amount of the policy does not determine its value as a gift. You will be giving your brother roughly the amount equal to the cash value of your policy. But let your insurance company brief you correctly on this. If you've borrowed on the policy, you can only give your brother the amount of money not obligated by any loan. And before you stretch out for a good night's sleep, be sure your lawyer has given you the final word.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I purchased some stock costing me $2,000, which is now valued at $3,000. I have decided to transfer it to a 14-year-old niece, naming her mother as custodian.

If the niece or custodian decides to sell this stock later — if and when the stock value rises to perhaps $4,000 — what capital gains tax would she be obliged to pay? On the $2,000 (my cost) or the $3,000 at the time of transfer?

S.C., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dear S.C.:

The recipient of these stocks takes them over on the same basis as the original owner. When the stocks are sold, any capital gains will be figured back to the original purchase price.

Yale China Expert Lawrence Speaker

Prof. David Rowe to Discuss Rift Between Reds, Soviets

David N. Rowe, professor of political science and director of graduate studies in international relations at Yale University, will speak on "The Foreign Policy of Communist China" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Lawrence University's Memorial Union.

Rowe

His talk will emphasize the growing political division between Red China and the USSR. The public is invited.

Rowe, author of "China Among the Powers" and "Modern China, Brief History," has taught in the social sciences at the universities of Southern California, Chicago and Michigan, and Harvard, Yale and Princeton universities.

Research Analyst

He has served as research analyst and consultant to the Library of Congress, the Department of Justice, the Office of Strategic Services and the United States Information Service.

In 1945 he was a member of the International Secretariat, United Nations Conference on International Organization, San Francisco.

He has taught at the Bureau of Naval Personnel, the Office of War Information, the National War College, the Inter-American Defense College, and the Army and Air Force War Colleges.

Born in China

Rowe was born in Nanking, China, in 1905 and resided in central China until 1922. He has traveled widely throughout the Orient.

He studied at Princeton University and the University of Southern California and earned a doctorate in history at the University of Chicago. He did post-doctoral study at Harvard University and the College of Chinese Studies, Peking, China, and spent 1937 and 1938 in Peking doing independent study and research in Chinese language and history.

Rowe has taught and served in advisory posts at the National Taiwan University, the China Institute in America, Ginling College, Taipei, Taiwan, and the National War College, Republic of China.

Honored by Republic

The Republic awarded him a Special Cravat of the Order of Brilliant Star in 1956. He was awarded an honorary master's degree by Yale University in 1950.

His talk is sponsored by the Lawrence Student Senate and the Lawrence Conservative Society.

Violent Objections by Braves

Judge Disallows Testimony By Torinus in Baseball Trial

Over the Milwaukee Braves' "violent objection," Circuit Judge Elmer Roller today refused to allow the opinions of John B. Torinus, editor of The Post-Crescent, in the Braves antitrust suit.

The Braves continually asked Torinus to give his opinion on the impact of the Milwaukee Journal on the Braves. The state objected to admission of any opinions, because the Braves' failed to qualify the witness as an "expert".

The Braves attorney, who did the questioning held in his hand a copy of Torinus' Sunday editorial column published in July, 1964 in The Post-Crescent. In the column, Torinus called the Journal "critical in varying degrees of the Braves organization almost ever since they moved to Milwaukee."

Strongly Criticized

Present in the courtroom was Oliver E. Kuechle, sports editor of the Journal, whose attitude toward the Braves has been strongly criticized by some baseball officials throughout the controversy of the ball club's move to Atlanta and by Braves attorneys throughout the trial. Braves officials contend that an adverse press was one of their reasons for moving to Atlanta, Ga. last fall.

Braves attorneys insisted that Torinus' testimony should be accepted by the court because of his position as editor of a daily and Sunday newspaper and his long experience in the newspaper field. They also mentioned that Torinus is secretary of the Green Bay Packers, but only after the witness had been asked to step down.

In protesting Judge Roller's decision, Braves attorneys called Torinus "vastly more qualified" than some witnesses for the state that have been allowed to testify as experts and give opinions.

The lawyers outnumbered the audience in the morning court session. Seven Braves attorneys lined one table, while six state attorneys lined another The audience numbered less than ten.

Law books, attache cases and foot-high stacks of papers, accumulated through the long, detailed, complicated antitrust trial, lay in front of each attorney A separate table was piled two-feet high with bound depositions, written statements from witnesses.

Son Writes on Blackboard in Court

Father Arraigned on Check Charge

A spunky little dark haired boy "almost four years old" amused himself by scribbling on a blackboard in the courtroom while a few feet away his father was being arraigned on a worthless check charge.

Almost an hour later the boy, stuffed with crackers, milk and apples fed him by court employes, said goodby to his father in the visiting room of the Outagamie County jail.

The boy, "Mike," is not sure when he'll next see his father, William Lee Gilbertson, arrested early Friday afternoon by Appleton detectives for cashing a worthless $20 check at an Appleton bank. The man was arrested as he and his son were checking out of a hotel.

Gilbertson, 30, of DeForest, Wis., who police said is named in a bulletin sent out by a state banking agency, pleaded guilty to the Appleton charge.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered the man placed in jail without bond until 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The problem of what to do with Mike complicated what ordinarily would have been a routine court procedure to the extent that more than an hour was spent on the case by the judge, district attorney, police and Outagamie County Welfare Department personnel.

Gilbertson, who said he is unemployed, told the court he has cared for the child since his wife "left them" some time ago. He told of being on his way to look into a job possibility at Antigo.

Appleton Patrolman Gary Kilby, who accompanied a detective to the court, had charge of helping keep Mike amused while authorities huddled in Judge Keller's chambers to decide the fate of the tot

Contact Welfare Department

The judge made it clear from the beginning that he had no intention of letting the boy remain in jail with the father. "Jail is no place for a child," he stated.

The problem was solved when county welfare officials did some quick investigating and found the youngster could be placed temporarily in one of the county's emergency foster homes. The father agreed to temporary custody by the welfare department

Mike watched at the visiting room in the jail as his father separated his and the boy's clothes which the pair carried in a large cardboard box and two old suitcases.

Gilbertson was told by Judge Keller, "This little fellow is the one getting the short end of the stick on this deal."

Tipsy Driver Fined $175

D. B. Olson, 39, Appleton, Loses License for 1 Year

Delbert B. Olson, 39, 812 S. Oneida St., arrested early this morning for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, pleaded guilty of the charge in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined Olson $75 and costs or 70 days in jail. In addition, the Appleton man's driver's license was revoked for one year.

Olson was arrested about 1:45 a.m. today by Appleton police on College Avenue at Rankin Street.

Man to Serve Jail Term on Forgery Counts

L. W. Haehnlein, 23, Little Chute Pleads Guilty to 14 Charges

Reformatory terms totaling as high as five years were levied Friday afternoon on Larry W Haehnlein, 23, Little Chute, who pleaded guilty to 14 counts of forgery brought by Outagamie and Winnebago counties

Haehnlein was sentenced by County Judge Gustave J Keller in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. He appeared Friday with his court-appointed attorney

Guilty pleas were heard earlier this month, first on five counts of forgery, then on seven more counts, and Friday afternoon, Haehnlein pleaded guilty to two additional counts from Winnebago County. The Little Chute man had asked consolidation of the Winnebago charges.

Judge Keller, after hearing testimony from Lt. Jack Zuelzke of the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department, who investigated along with Appleton police, sentenced Haehnlein to an indeterminate term not to exceed three years on the first count, and up to one year each on the second and third counts, with each sentence to be served consecutively.

In addition, one year terms were imposed on counts four through 12 and on the Winnebago County charges, with those terms to run concurrent with the first count

Haehnlein will serve the sentences in the Green Bay reformatory.

The 12 charges to which Haehnlein pleaded guilty earlier involved checks in amounts from $40 to $54.50 written on forms taken from Badger Wrecking Co. of Appleton, where the Little Chute man formerly was employed. The checks were cashed at Little Chute, Appleton and Kaukauna business places between Jan. 15 and Feb. 9.

The two Winnebago County charges involved checks of $45 and $47 50 cashed Jan. 21 and Jan. 28 in the Town of Menasha.

Counsel was appointed for Haehnlein when he first appeared in court on Feb. 14.

Clear Skies General View

High Winds, Rain Pelt East Texas, Snow in East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High winds and rain lashed East Texas and rain and snow sprinkled down from the Great Lakes to New England, but the balance of the nation enjoyed clear skies today.

Winds gusted to 50 miles an hour south of Austin, where a house trailer was blown over. Marble-sized hail accompanied thunderstorms south of Austin, and Wichita Falls reported pea-sized hail.

There were unconfirmed reports of a funnel cloud near Abilene Sunday night.

In six hours Sunday night, Austin absorbed .69 inch of rain. Ardmore, Okla., reported .56 inch.

Rain in trace amounts was reported in a narrow band stretching from the lower Great Lakes to New England.

A high-pressure zone moving down from Canada lowered temperatures east of the Rockies It was below freezing as far south as Missouri and Tennessee, and readings in the teens were common from the northern Great Lakes to New England.

Temperatures stayed relatively high west of the Rockies to the Pacific Coast. The mercury rose into the 60s in Southern California and the Texas thunderstorm belt.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from 5 at Marquette, Mich., to 70 at McAllen, Tex

Labor Relations Board To Open Experimental Office at Green Bay

An experimental one day per month office of the National Labor Relations Board will be opened at Green Bay.

In announcing the opening, George Squillacote, regional director of the Milwaukee region, said the experiment is aimed at better acquainting the general public with the policies, procedures and services of the board. He said the program is in keeping with the President's plan to improve service by federal agencies to the public.

If sufficient interest is evident as a result of the Green Bay office, Squillacote said that similar services may be provided at other locations within the regional office area covering Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

A representative of the National Labor Relations Board will be present at Room B-15B in the Green Bay federal building and post office between the hours of 10 a.m. and 9 p.m., April 5.

U. S. Planes Not Suitable In Viet Nam

Jets Can't Maneuver Fast Enough for Jungle Warfare

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Overloaded with intercontinental missiles and nuclear weapons, the United States does not have — and will not soon have — a cheap and suitable aircraft for guerrilla fighting in Viet Nam

Considering the fact that this inadequacy is related to life and death in combat, it may be rightly called a scandal But no Congressional investigation will

uncover a scapegoat For this is a collective guilt shared by Defense Department civilians, Air Force bomber pilots, Navy brass, and, most of all, by the inexorable workings of The System

The System can be beaten in times of great peril There is a legendary story of how one fighter plane was off the drawing boards and into production in two months during World War II But today no effort has been made to beat The System

To the uniformed military this has significance far beyond the lack of anti-guerrilla aircraft To them it is just another indication that the government is not pursuing the Viet Nam war with its utmost capability

Jets Can't Maneuver

In brief, the facts are these For want of anything more suitable, U S aviators today fly high-powered Air Force and Navy jet fighter bombers in support of ground troops against Viet Cong guerrillas This is roughly comparable to fighting a mosquito with a cannon The jets simply cannot maneuver adequately at the low speeds necessary for effective support of troops

A plane has been designed specifically for this mission: the counter-insurgency aircraft or COIN A two-engined propeller-driven plane specifically designed for guerrilla warfare, it now has been ordered by both the Air Force and Marine Corps Yet, not even optimists believe it will be ready for Viet Nam before the spring of 1968

It need not have been so late Some seven years ago, Marine Corps aviators were seriously planning a COIN aircraft Had they been helped and encouraged, the plane could have been ready by mid-1961 Instead they ran head-on into The System

Turned Down

Both Navy and Air Force brass turned thumbs down With defense spending set at a fixed level, they wanted to develop big missiles—not waste their money on little propeller-driven airplanes If the infantry had followed the same logic, the Army would have discontinued research and production of rifles and concentrated on heavy artillery and tanks

Air Force opposition was particularly adamant Jet pilots had little interest in an old-fashioned, unexciting propeller plane Bomber minded brass headed by Gen Curtis LeMay were scornful of planes for ground support action

But all the blame cannot be heaped on the brass To Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's cost-efficiency experts, the COIN looked like an unnecessary expenditure that didn't meet their slide rule requirements Even last summer when U S involvement in Viet Nam was rising top Pentagon civilians told us the COIN might be a waste of money After all, they said, Viet Nam would probably be over by the time the COIN was built

The unsung hero of this costly Pentagon dog-fight was Dr James Wakelin then Assistant Secretary of the Navy who escorted the COIN through heavy flak from the Navy Air Force, and the civilians The Navy finally decided it wanted the COIN for Marine aviation Gen John P O'Connell, who replaced LeMay as Air Force Chief of Staff a year ago, reversed LeMay's decision and ordered COIN aircraft to support Army ground operations

Yet, in its tortuous course through The System, the COIN was transformed As technicians tinkered with it, it inevitably grew larger and more costly Innovations designed to make it more suitable for guerrilla warfare — such as a special location of fuel tanks to limit the possibility of fire in crashes — fell by the wayside Even in development, the COIN became a victim of The System

Indeed, the COIN is so altered that some of its early enthusiasts now reserve judgment whether it will do the job in Viet Nam And if we turn the corner against the Viet Cong a year from now, as the Pentagon earnestly hopes, Viet Nam may not even be the testing ground for the COIN. The war may be over before the plane designed to fight it is ready.

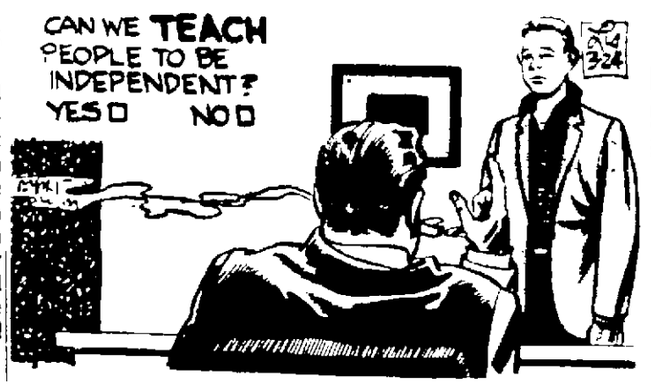
Freedom Food Law Needed, Freeman Says

ST LOUIS, Mo (AP) — The "food for freedom" law must be passed by Congress if the world is to win the war with hunger, says U S Secretary of Agriculture Orville L Freeman

Freeman told a farm group the law would increase capital and technical assistance as well as expand food shipments to foreign countries

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.



No, say some students of the subject Modern life requires that people be organized The very fact of organization requires that they become dependent and subordinate As a result, they get so that they don't care Productive efficiency, the reduction of conflict, the very basis of orderly society require that independence be sharply curtailed What have you to say about this contention?

Most unhappy couples separate.

True— False— False Some husbands and wives separate or get divorced when their marriages fail to satisfy But there is new evidence that a clear majority of them stick it out and hope for the best As one business executive says, 'My first impulse was to chuck it all and start over again But the disenchantment isn't quite that dramatic and the longer I out the best course of action, on thought about it, the clearer the balance " At such a point in a alternatives seemed to me The marriage a husband and wife choices aren't quite black and could possibly be helped profes- white and so you try to work sionally

Milk House Leveled In Blaze Near Marion

MARION — The second of two fires in rural areas Wednesday resulted in the destruction of the milk house at the G. A. Kemmer farm, route 1.

Fire was discovered at 3 p.m. when Mrs. Kemmer saw smoke coming from the building. Strong winds kept the flames from moving to nearby buildings, according to authorities.

Fire was attributed to a short in the electrical unit of a fence charger.

A call was received by the department to extinguish a chimney fire at the home of Bernard Genskow, route 1. Authorities said the home wasn't damaged.

Federal Government To Provide Funds for School Library Books

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — More library books are on the way for hundreds of Wisconsin schools under new financial subsidies offered by the federal government.

The State Department of Public Instruction is urging local school officers to make haste with their applications for funds for the purchase of "quality" books, those which would ordinarily be beyond the capacity of their book purchase budgets. The department said the expected aid distribution would provide about $1.50 to $1.75 for each pupil in the state for new library acquisitions.

National Hobby Winner

Kimberly Boy Hopes to Add Magic to His 'Bag of Tricks'

Besides having a ventriloquist and an accordion player in the family, the Gerrit Janssens now also have a magician in the making.

Dan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Janssen, 414 S. John St., Kimberly already is an accomplished ventriloquist and accordionist. But since Tuesday his hopes are high that he also will become adept at legerdermain.

As one of the five national winners for a recent Young Hobby Club contest, appearing in Cappy Dick's Post-Crescent column for children, he now is the proud owner of a bona fide beginner's magic set.

Dan Janssen

Dan, 11, is a sixth grader at Holy Name of Jesus School in Kimberly. He is the oldest in a family of four other children. The Janssens were really surprised to find out that Dan was named a national winner. Other big winners are from Pennsylvania, Illinois, Washington, and Ohio.

Pleasant Surprise

Ventriloquist Dan was even more surprised. He was all smiles when the Hocus Pocus magic set was presented to him. He commented that he could now try to compete with his uncle, an amateur magician. Like any young man of his age, his plans also include a bit of showing off at parties. After he learns the technique of course.

Dan wasn't expecting anything. He just read about the contest which appeared in the newspaper and entered it.

He says he didn't have any idea his entry would go to the national contest after he won the area prize of a set of tacky paddles. In this contest, published every Wednesday, entries of area winners throughout the United States are entered in the national contest.

Dan's secret for winning the contest was unscrambling the names of different candies appearing on the miniature contest picture, then coloring the picture with crayons. He painted the names of the various candies on a sheet of paper, using the colors he thought the candies should be.

Dan says he certainly is going to try for other prizes. He isn't sure which ones, but feels that now he has won once, he's sure he can win again.

Correction

Three events at Lawrence University were listed incorrectly in the Special Events column of the Post-Crescent. The Fine Arts Quartet will appear in the Chamber Music series next Thursday at 8 p.m. in Harper Hall of the Music-Drama Center. The two lecturers also will be next week at the University, theologian Robert Short appearing at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Stansbury Theater and Prof. David N. Rowe of Yale University speaking on communism at 8 p.m. in Lawrence Memorial Chapel.

Your Money's Worth

New Jobs Developing As Older Ones Pass

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Can you define the duties of an astrogeologist a synoptic meteorologist, an engineering psychologist or a geomagnetician?

If you can't, you're in the majority Yet, these are among

Porter

the fast-growing new occupations in the U S today

Would you guess that job prospects are bright in the fields of atomic energy electric power, radio, television, telephones, petroleum and natural gas?

If so, you're in the majority Yet, the fact is that the rate of new job growth in these fields actually is shrinking

Never have changes in the U S labor market been so dramatic, so rapid fire as in the era in which we live A comparison of the Labor Department s latest 862 page Occupational Outlook Handbook with previous editions in the past decade underlines the fantastic extent to which whole new occupations are emerging under our eyes, while whole old occupations disappear

Job Shifts

Meanwhile within the major job fields detailed shifts of importance to millions also are occurring For instance

—The small U S dairy farmer is fading from the countryside But agribusiness" jobs in other fields are climbing agricultural research workers agricultural economists workers in feed mills fertilizer productions food processing

—Openings for artists actors writers musicians continue to be exceedingly limited But the market for school teachers in all of these fields is expanding substantially and so are chances for commercial artists technical writers, illustrators

—The broad field of atomic energy is stabilizing But future growth is anticipated in jobs in space vehicle propulsion in electric power stations in radioisotopes for medicine and food preservation

Create New Jobs

—Automation obviously is wiping out vast numbers of jobs particularly among the unskilled and undereducated

But, just as obviously, automation is creating other jobs for computer programers, copying machine service men tape librarians, tape perforator typists etc

—A relative shrinking of jobs in many goods producing industries has been going on through most of the post World War II years But a sharp increase in jobs in services has been a postwar phenomenon too and there has been a spectacular upsurge in employment in government health and education

The implications of these employment trends go beyond their clear impact on the millions choosing careers in this era

They mean that our schools and teachers must make giant strides in equipping students with the general basic knowledge which they can carry from job to job This knowledge will be essential if employes are to cope successfully with the shifts in their occupations in the years ahead

They mean that vocational counselors must become far more proficient in guiding students through the maze of today s and tomorrow's occupational opportunities Matching interests and abilities with jobs is becoming a 'skill" in itself

They mean that employers must place increasing stress on continuous worker training-retaining — and workers must be prepared to undergo training-retraining throughout their working lifetimes

(Note An astrogeologist studies the surface of the moon or planets A synoptic meteorologist interprets information on weather conditions from worldwide reports weather satellites, etc An engineering psychologist studies man machine relationships A geomagnetician probes the earth s magnetic field)

Tremors on Increase in Quake Town

City in Japan Feels 130,000 Jolts Since August

MATSUSHIRO, Japan (AP) — The daily tremors rattling Japan s quake town ' are increasing again Experts are unable to determine the cause

But Matsushiro s 22 600 inhabitants who have lived through more than 130 000 tremors since last Aug 3 have shown no sign of panic

In February the quakes appeared to be diminishing in frequency But since early March the frequency of jolts strong enough to be felt by the human body have picked up and amounted to 125 on March 17 alone

A spokesman of Tokyo University s Farthquake Research Institute recently warned the seismic energy at Matsushiro was much greater than had been imagined

Not only have the quakes increased in number again and grown stronger, but the area affected has spread, scientists reported

For months the quake s epicenter had been an oval, seven miles long and four miles wide with Matsushiro about in the middle

There has not been much visible damage in Matsushiro once a minor feudal lord s capital 110 miles northwest of Tokyo nor have there been any injuries

But the town is like an old buggy which has been rattling too long over a rough road Most of its wood and plaster buildings have cracked walls disjointed frames leaning pillars and broken window panes

On March 10 a jolt of intensity four was registered A quake rated at four is strong enough to shake houses and knock vases from shelves A weakened house collapsed A score of tomb stones toppled several stone walls crumbled and the wall of a condemned school building caved in

On that day the Matsushiro Earthquake Observatory recorded 1 700 jolts but less than 100 could be felt by townspeople Over the next few days the number of perceptible shocks rose to more than 100 a day Earlier this year came the two strongest shocks of the series Tremors of intensity five on the Japanese scale of seven or strong enough to crack brick walls
